The Cornellian Council

The Cornellian Council, founded in 1908, is the Alumni organization which has for its purpose the stimulation of alumni interest in the financial support of the University. The founders of the Council had in mind the idea of doing away with indiscriminate and merely occasional solicitation of the Alumni and of having all appeals for the University's needs made by one organization vested with authority. The wisdom of this plan is now acknowledged by the faculty, trustees, and alumni, and the soundness of the plan has been shown in other universities as well as Cornell.

Small gifts to the University are made valuable by reason of their large number and solidarity of purpose and at the same time interest is created which can be created in no other way. The larger part of the gifts to the Alumni Fund are unrestricted and are available for appropriation by the Trustees where most needed. Gifts to the University through the Cornellian Council may, however, be allocated for special purposes and when so allocated are used for these purposes only.

The membership of the Cornellian Council is made up of one member representative from each of the classes, forty members at large, elected by the Council, and an indefinite number of honorary members.

Payments on all subscriptions to the Alumni Fund as soon as received by the Executive Secretary of the Council, are immediately forwarded to the Treasurer of the University. More than $1,500,000 has been contributed by alumni of Cornell to Cornell University through the organization of the Cornellian Council since 1908.

The Cornellian Council undertakes from time to time, to raise funds for special projects. At present, Robert E. Treman, '09, is chairman of a committee, appointed by the Cornellian Council, to raise $250,000 to construct a special dormitory group as a war memorial to honor the memory of the two hundred thirty-eight Cornell men who gave their lives in the World War.

Frank E. Gannett, '98, president of the Cornellian Council, has been in constant and intimate contact with the University and its problems for more than thirty years, first as one of the editors of the Cornell Daily Sun when an undergraduate, later, Secretary to Ex-President Schurman, editor of the Alumni News, editor and publisher of the Ithaca Journal News, president of two of the Cornell Alumni Clubs, chairman of one of the Semi-Centennial Endowment committees, and, for a number of years, a member of the Executive Committee of the Cornellian Council. Last Spring, Mr. Gannett was elected a trustee of the University by the Alumni.

Mr. Gannett is the editor and publisher of seven important newspapers in New York State and is recognized as one of the leading journalists in this country. The Cornellian Council is fortunate in having as its president this loyal, enthusiastic, and able graduate, who is willing to devote himself unstintingly for the best interest of Cornell.

War Memorial

Ten years ago this spring America entered the World War, and on May 24, 1917, the first American combatant unit, commanded by a Cornellian and composed largely of Cornellians, carried the Stars and Stripes into action. That was the beginning of a war record which made Cornell pre-eminent among American colleges in point of service to her country during that great national emergency. Of the 6850 Cornellians who joined the Colors, 3037 were commissioned officers, 237 made the supreme sacrifice, and 108 were decorated for bravery. Individual Cornellians distinguished themselves as the first American officer to be awarded the French War Cross, the first American woman to obtain army rank, the second American ace, and as one of the few to win the Congressional Medal of Honor.

At present the only reminders of this splendid record are the tank "America," reposing beside the Drill Hall, and the handsome service flag displayed in Memorial Hall in Willard Straight. Cornell feels that she can no longer let the valor of her sons go unhonored and is planning an adequate expression of her pride in their achievements. Built in the Collegiate Gothic style, this memorial will form the principal architectural feature and gateway of the men's dormitory system. Located along West Avenue, the building will look eastward to the Library Tower and westward over the Lake to the hills beyond. Each of the towers will contain seventeen rooms, some of which will be endowed by relatives and friends in memory of individual war heroes. The colonnade will contain tablets dedicated to each of the 237 "gold star" Cornellians. Thus the memorial will combine the essentials of artistic beauty and usefulness.

THE 1927 CORNELL YEARBOOK

The Class of 1927

By JERVIS LANGDON, JR., '27

Do not let the imposing title of this sketch disturb you for this is not a history. It is merely a chronicle of a few of the events which we have witnessed, a few of the experiences which we have had in our four years at Cornell. It is in no sense a diary of the average college student for the glamour of much which would color such a journal has faded.

It is, we fear, impersonal, dealing with happenings, not persons. These momentous occasions have had their influence upon us and for this reason alone are worth recording. Yet the most important things cannot be set down in black and white. They are below the surface and are interesting to individuals only. But our athletic games, our social activities, our class functions stand out in strong relief. Taking a rapid glance backwards from the present time until we entered Cornell, certain events are prominent and it is with these that we will attempt briefly to deal in the short space allotted to us.

Realizing these necessary deficiencies, we present this rough sketch of our undergraduate life for our future edification and amusement.

I.

There was no great blaring of trumpets and clanging of cymbals as we, one by one, first slipped into Ithaca. We were, indeed, greeted by numerous agents who wanted to accommodate us in every respect from suitable lodgings to laundry facilities, but these friendly gestures did not dampen our enthusiasm for the physical beauties of the town which was to be our home for the next four years.

Here we were. Few of us knew exactly why we had come. Our families were aware of the advantages that an education would give us. They understood, and we professed to know, how the democratic give and take of a university community was valuable in itself. The chances for physical development were not discounted, nor were the opportunities for friendship, for social contact. Most of us, indeed, realized that we might acquire some training for our future life work, some information which would make us more efficient bread winners. Some of us were even inclined to appreciate the advantages which result when one is put at some sort of thinking for a period of four years or so. We were cognizant of the fact that our minds might become more efficient, more acute, more systematic, and hence more useful than ever before.

"The physical beauties of Ithaca"

"Eager to start our educations"

Few of us, indeed, had definite ideas as to how we were going to utilize the coming years which were, perhaps, to be the most important in our lives. Some were destined for technical trainings. For these it was simpler; it was a case of becoming expert and proficient in certain scientific fields. At least, it was a case of building a broad basis upon which they might in later life rest their minute and more exact knowledge. Some were going to the College of Agriculture; others to Architecture, many of us were to find ourselves in the College of Arts and Sciences.

We, of the last group, were soon bewildered. We had selected our college because, not being mathematically, nor agriculturally, nor architecturally inclined, there seemed to be no other place to go. We accepted our fate in good spirits, and announced that we were going to be cultured gentlemen instead of trained specialists.

Quietly, with little ado, we found quarters, selected suitable eating places, paid for hundreds of subscriptions, registered with Davy Hoy, selected our courses in our several colleges, bought our caps, and became Cornellians. It was a refreshing feeling as we looked around and beheld the landmarks which have made Cornell so famous from a physical point of view. The leaves were just beginning to turn, and other touches of autumn gave a charming air of serenity and peacefulness to the gorges, the lake, and the hills. We were pride proud of our new home. It was no wonder, we thought, that such a place could be one of few in the world where the intellect is supposed to rule men's hearts, and the mind is the most important thing in life. We experienced a new lease on life as we breathed the fresh air. We could sense the invigorating effects of a community dedicated to the cause of enlightenment. We were eager to get into the run of things, to start our educations, to seek out those great truths which have guided man's destinies through the generations, to search after new principles, new methods, new sources which might add to the world's great store of knowledge. If only classes would start!

Our first initiation into affairs essentially Cornellian was the rushing season. We were dined and wined and whisked about. Our ideas concerning the inferiority of first year men were rudely jarred as we were our own masters in the wildest scramble that we had ever experienced; there were no quarters asked; every man for himself. Some of us joined fraternities; others did not, and now in our last year, there is much conjecture as to which group took the wiser course. Pledge buttons became conspicuous, and the art of friend-making was given a decided stimulus, as we met our classmates in the hurly-burly of this annual fraternal warfare.

Before the commencement of classes, there was a football game to attend. We were there in force, and gave expression to our joy and satisfaction with loud yelling and hearty singing as we saw the Big Red Team, of which we had heard such glorious accounts, triumph in masterful style. This was a great day. We sang the Alma Mater with almost as much feeling as we were going to sing four years after. We were aware of the spirit of Cornell, and this spirit was maintained at a high pitch by a magnificent series of football games in which Cornell again showed to the world that she was supreme when it came to playing on the gridiron. The glamour of our curricular work soon faded before the bright red of the football team. Momentarily, we neglected those intellectual ideals which had filled us upon our first arrival in Ithaca. But this was only a temporary slump, because, as we realized, a championship team should demand our unqualified support, even at the expense of studies.

Besides the celebrated football season which included, among other things, the downfall of Dartmouth and Penn, there was much soccer activity, and the cross-country team was another worthy product of Mr. Moakley's. Both of these sports commanded the interests of not a few of our classmates, and it was not so long before little numeral caps, with 1927 emblazoned on the visors, appeared on the campus signifying that these distinguished members of our class might soon assume their roles on varsity teams.

Removed from affairs athletic, we were greeted by the appearance of two new publications, The Cornell Graphic and The Cornell Era, both comic offsprings of mother, Era. We hastened to purchase these new-comers, and sad we would have been, had we known that both were foredoomed to failure, although the former was to survive a lingering death for some four years.

Time flew. The football season came to a close, and we anticipated Christmas vacation with great eagerness. Our intellectual pursuits underwent a still more pronounced slump after Thanksgiving—a state of affairs for which we blamed the University because it did not furnish us with a three-day vacation. Christmas recess was nearly at hand, and after our sojourns, we for the first time in our lives (most of us anyway) buried ourselves in work. "Busting" became a nasty by-word, and we were determined that none of us should hear the terrible call. Cornell's expulsion record had been deeply engraven on our hearts, and it was with a will to work that we attacked the books.

Happy to say, few of us "busted." How we survived the gauntlet, few could tell. But the fact was there, and we were satisfied and attributed our success to a period of intensive industry and close application to the job at hand—something which we had come to college to learn.

"Our first Junior Week"

"Comic offspring of Mother Era"

Examinations over, we experienced our first Junior Week. Little did we think that four years later a few of our number would actively agitate the abolition of the institution which seemed at this time so far above reproach. We drank it all in. These were, indeed, three days set aside for the ravishment of soul and sense, and we felt a certain obligation to do justice to the affair and its opportunity.

The winter produced a successful basketball team, a creditable wrestling squad, and a track team which won half of its indoor meets. Besides these athletic high-lights, these were rather dull months, and so we turned to the books, finding occasional enjoyment and even relaxation in the assignments made for our work. Everyone told us that during these few weeks we were to work, because there was not much else to do, and by so preparing ourselves, we might be free to enjoy the fullness of the Spring which invariably brought so many diversions.

One week at Easter was a rest from our labors, and we returned for a glorious Spring of which the high water mark was the annual Spring Day festival. This single event stands out in our memories as a salient land-mark of our first year. Although the races were contested on the Inlet, instead of on the lake, we welcomed the change which gave us a chance to see a famous Cornell crew in action. The weird sight of two crews coming down the narrow passageway of the stream, illuminated by bon-fires, was a picture we will ever retain in our minds. There was a certain thrill in everything which happened on the Spring Day of the year 1924.

"Our Sophomore year was short"

II.

Our Sophomore year was short. Indeed, the athletic prowess of the previous year was gone, and our class had been weeded by the authorities, until we seemed a mere skeleton of our former self. But these things did not disturb us greatly, as many of our friends were to return, and the law of chance would soon bring Cornell again into the front ranks of athletic supremacy.

Returning for our second year, we renewed our first-year vows which, although we were loath to admit it, had undergone a severe reaction under the stress of our first year's initiation into Cornell. Much of the glamour was gone, but still we were determined to make this year a successful one, and to accomplish this, we knew that we must study, and study hard. This loss of glamour did not detract from the seriousness of our intentions.

The football squad, as we have said, did not do very well. Williams was the first opponent to humble the Big Red Team which for three years had held aloft a championship banner. This defeat was followed by another downfall, administered by Rutgers. Columbia furnished a few bright moments as we predicted that Dobie's machine was coming to a tardy self-realization. But our hopes were shattered as Dartmouth and Penn both trampled over the down-trodden eleven.

The soccer team did little better, finishing last in the league ratings. The cross country team brought no glory to Cornell, and so it was, that we found ourselves homeward bound for the Christmas vacation with little accomplished except some fairly hard work and some fairly decent mid-term marks. These were satisfying, very satisfying, to our parents.

Again came Junior Week. The frolic was more violent than ever before. But we had just been through an unusually difficult Block Week, and as we had been most diligent in our studies ever since the early Fall, we thought ourselves deserving of some first class recreation. We got this recreation as only Sophomores can. We drank in every phase of this venerable institution, still untouched by scorpions, which lent itself admirably to the occasion.

During this time two events happened which were of the utmost importance. Ground was broken for the erection of Willard Straight Hall, an institution which was soon to fill a great need in undergraduate life. The construction of this building was incredibly rapid, and in one year and a half, the doors were to be opened and the Hall was to become an integral part of the University community. Earlier than this, we witnessed the enlargement of the Schoellkopf Stadium which now could accommodate a crowd of some 28,000. The architectural features of the new athletic plant were very happily constructed, and the new addition was immediately dubbed The Cornell Crescent.

The winter brought more athletic defeats, but the visit of a Cambridge debating team served to brighten an otherwise dull term. Winter terms are usually dull in respect to attractions other than those furnished by winter sports, Beebe Lake, Johnny Parson's Club, and studies. The winter, moreover, brought the customary period of intensive work, a time broken only by the Junior Smoker and by an announcement that the Arts College would henceforth restrict registration to those who had strong characters as well as strong grades.

"Friendships that last"

Easter vacation was followed by a spring which we will never forget. Fresh hopes and aspirations were stimulated by the beautiful weather which, day after day, reigned over Ithaca. Work was, we fear, neglected as we drank in the great gifts of Nature. We were happy and care-free and noisy. But we were Sophomores, and God forgives Sophomores. It is one of His Divine Obligations.

Spring was the time when we made many of the friendships which were to last for the rest of our lives; we will always look back on these days which may prove, in certain respects, to be among the most valuable, certainly among the happiest, in our lives. Spring Day and baseball games passed by as we enjoyed life. The crews carried most of their activity in parts removed from Ithaca, and though we were disappointed not to see the eights in action, this loss detracted little from our sheer animal joy of existence.

"Ground broken for Willard Straight"

III.

Ignominy was a thing of the past. When we returned in September of our Junior Year, we who had survived the lists considered ourselves well on the road to a degree. We could flaunt bared heads, and we were not obliged to give any serious consideration to our intellectual development or our technical training. This attitude soon changed, however, as we faced the momentous tasks to be accomplished during the year. Our point of view shifted from dogged determination to monotonous efficiency, a monotony which again lasted but for a short time, for the Junior year brings with it a certain deep sense of responsibility which escapes one during the first two years.

The football team enjoyed an auspicious beginning. Susquehanna, Niagara, Williams, Rutgers, and Columbia were accounted for in summary manner. These were pleasing victories as we considered Cornell well on the road toward another championship. Dartmouth, however, upset our hopes and triumphed decisively. The sad news of this defeat was broken by the announcement that Ned Wayburn would direct the Masque for the coming year, and we were aware that it is ill wind that blows no good. Penn, however, came to the rescue and completed our dismay as we witnessed the Varsity fall before the powerful attack of the Red and Blue.

"An auspicious beginning"

This season of disappointments brought one great event which will ever stand out in our memories. The iron doors of Willard Straight Hall were opened on November 18th, and all the wildest expectations which we had entertained for this magnificent building were realized. With no further delay, the Hall found its place in the University life. For days we admired the beauty of the place. It was architecturally perfect, artistically superb. The facilities were well planned and well run, and we shall never be able fully to thank the donors, Mrs. Elmhirst and her first husband, Willard Straight, for the contribution they made to Cornell. Its inception marked a great event in Cornell history; its enjoyment by the coming generations will ever bear witness to the far-sightedness and generosity of the donors who would make Cornell a "more human place."

The usual Christmas vacation was followed by an intensive period of study, by examinations, and by another Junior Week. Nothing of importance happened to disturb the ordinary course of events. We took them, each in turn, and most of us were thankful when they were over, the Masque over forever, as we later discovered.

The basketball team had fair success, ending the season with an equal number of victories and defeats. The wrestling team was victorious and brought its season to a brilliant close by capturing the intercollegiates. The Junior Smoker, sponsored by our class, was a distinct success. The evening was dedicated to Jack Moakley, whose teams have won international renown and who, himself, is a dearly beloved man.

Some time after Easter came Spring Day. For weeks previous to the actual affair, a controversy was waged concerning the shape of the earth. A letter printed in The Sun started the ball rolling, and for days a storm of protest arose against the man who dared to say that the earth was flat. There were public meetings; there were bon-fires. Prominent faculty members plunged into the fray, hurling academic bricks at each other. Righteous indignation was rampant, and being given free play, a cloud hung low over this peaceful home of learning, where complete understanding had supposedly brought an end to all wranglings about the world and its affairs.

Spring Day actually came, and Christopher Columbus failed to prove that the earth was rotund in shape. There were other interesting happenings, some of which will long be remembered by the Editors of The Globe and Square Dealer, and The Graphic. "Woe worth the Day." Although Aeolus spoiled the crew races, and Yale won the baseball game, our spirits were not dampened, and Spring Day passed in a blaze of glory.

Examinations and the Poughkeepsie races were experienced!

IV.

We returned for our last year at Cornell with the sober realization that this was to be the last great year in an environment which we had grown to love. We were saddened by the thought that our days at Cornell were numbered; and we made solemn vows to drink in as much of the spirit of the place as we could in the space of one fleeting year.

Under the leadership of Captain Carey, the football team staged a revival and gave a Cornell crowd the greatest spectacle that has ever been witnessed on Schoellkopf Field. Our memories of the Dartmouth Game of the fall of 1926 will remain with us until our dying days. The score, 24 to 23, will ever bear witness to the most exciting climax possible in modern gridiron warfare. Inspired by this victory, we had hopes for beating Penn, but the Turkey Day Classic, as the journalists term it, ended in a 10 to 10 deadlock, thus bringing to an end a season replete with brilliant moments.

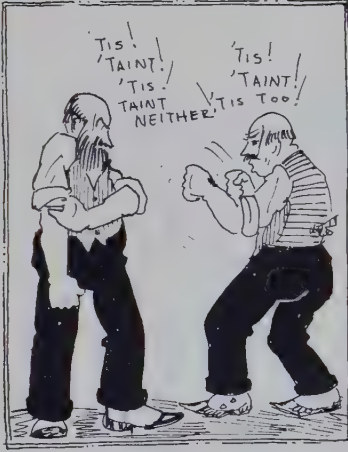

The fall was likewise notable for the appearance of the Five Bewildered Freshmen. These five heretics, discouraged and disheartened, and professing not to know what it was all were no more certainties in life or thought. For a time we looked with much favor on the animal existence: no worries, no concerns, just eat, sleep, and drink. After the first storm had passed over, we began to classify human actions into two kinds, the instinctive type and the intellectual. And we fully appreciated the principle underlying all educational procedure, that in the long run if men know what they are going to do and how they are going to do it, and are acquainted with the situation with which they are to deal, their responses to those situations will be more intelligent, better adjusted, and more fruitful than they would be otherwise.

And so we were glad that we had come to Cornell to get knowledge. We were satisfied that knowledge was good in itself, and that knowledge paid, and our only regret was that we had not worked harder on those things which Cornell offered for the enrichment of our lives.

We passed through our last Junior Week, which a few members of our class had cared violently to deprecate before Christmas. We survived the first term examinations, witnessed the athletic attractions, and rested during the Easter vacation.

The Spring term passed too quickly. Before we knew it, our last final examinations were at hand. Commencement was over, and we were left to seek our fortunes in the cold, cold world.

It was all over; all over but the memories. The four years at Cornell had served to open some eyes, to disclose new vistas to the more fortunate. For others it was merely a period in their lives when things of the mind took second place, and the ravishment of soul and sense occupied the foreground. But for one and for all, Cornell had made some impression, some mark, some contribution to our lives. It is our hope that in time we may partially repay those gifts she has so generously bestowed upon us.

about, wrote a letter to The Sun which gave rise to one of the grandest philosophical discussions that Cornell University has ever had. Professors and students alike joined hands in an effort to comfort these first year students who were in such despair. Professor Becker was the outstanding contributor, and after we had read his communication in which he stated that in this world "dominated by machines, of incredibly rapid change, of naturalistic sciences, of physico-chemico-libido psychology," no one knew what it was all about. We began to realize that we, the seniors, did not know what it was all about either. We began to ask many questions. Why had we come to college? What should college give us? What should we have gotten out of our four years here? Where were we going to? Where were we? What was this thing called 'life'? Why live?

And so we began to think about these things. We were more bewildered than the freshmen. We were hopelessly at sea. No one seemed to help us. No one seemed to know. All we knew was that we were here, we had done some studying, had collected a small amount of information about a few subjects, were going to be graduated in the spring. And even these so-called facts were uncertain, because we were told that there

Musical Clubs

After the usual Fall try-outs and eliminations, the Glee Club directed by Mr. Eric Dudley, and the Mandolin Club under the supervision of Mr. George L. Coleman, '95, began their long siege of semi-weekly rehearsals. With the approach of the Christmas Vacation, 62 men were selected to make the 33d Annual Tour.

KENNETH MERRILL YOUNG, '27
President

The Clubs assembled in Indianapolis on December 27th. In the afternoon they were entertained at a tea dance by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Metzger, and in the evening the first concert of the trip was given before a large and appreciative audience. All doubt as to the further success of the Tour was firmly set aside by the splendid rendition and enthusiastic acceptance of the difficult, and for a college organization, presumptuous program which included many operatic and classical selections as well as the ever popular college songs. The fine hospitality of the Cornell Association of Indiana, which held a dance for the men after the concert, proved indicative of the gracious reception that everywhere was to await the Clubs.

The success of the Indianapolis Concert was repeated in the Grand Ballroom of the Book-Cadillac Hotel the next evening. During the afternoon of their stay in Detroit the men visited the Packard Motor Car Company factories as the guests of Mr. Packard. The Cornell Club of Michigan was a most generous host, entertaining the Clubs at a dinner dance before the concert and again at another dance after the concert.

On their way to Buffalo the Clubs stopped for a day in Toledo. Here they were regaled at a tea dance given in their honor by the Cornell Club of Toledo. In the evening they gave a fine concert in the Auditorium of Scott High School. The day in Buffalo began with a buffet luncheon and dance at which Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schoellkopf, Jr., were hosts. Before the concert, which was followed by a dance at the Woodstock Club, the Clubs broadcast a few novelty numbers through Station W. G. R.

Continuing eastward, the organization arrived in Binghamton for the New Year's Eve Concert. The Rotary Club entertained the men at a luncheon made merry by the musical antics of the stunt groups. Of the dances proffered to them, most of the members chose that of the Monday Afternoon Club as a fitting way to usher in the new year.

The southernmost concert of the Tour was given before an audience of more than 2,000 in Baltimore on January 1st. Many more Cornell Songs than usual were sung to satisfy the demand for innumerable encores, and the Cornell spirit pervaded the evening which had as its climax the most enjoyable social function of the entire trip, a dance with the Cornell Club of Maryland as host.

After a more or less restful week-end in New York, the Clubs gave a well received concert followed by the usual dance in Upper Montclair on Monday evening, January 3d. Tuesday evening the men dined at the Cornell Club as guests of the New York Alumni, and then, with the help of Nelson Macey, '94, past president of the Clubs, they presented an excellent concert, the last of the trip, to a distinguished audience in the Grand Ballroom of the Plaza.

Upon returning to Ithaca, practice was immediately resumed in preparation for the Junior Week, Spring Day, and Senior Week concerts. The men worked so hard that, in spite of losses in membership due to graduation and other causes, the Junior Week Concert equalled if not surpassed the finest performance of the Tour.

The brilliant success of the Tour and of the Junior Week Concert augurs well for the remaining concerts of the year and for next year's Mississippi valley trip.

Review

The Cornell Dramatic Club holds the distinction of being one of the most active undergraduate histrionic groups in the country. The season of 1925-26, the Club's first year in the new University Theater in Willard Straight Hall, was successfully terminated with two major productions, The Stronger by Giacosa and the Senior Week performances of The Contrast by Royal Tyler. During that year, the Club gave six major productions and forty-eight one-act plays, public performances being given on forty-five evenings.

The year of 1926-27 has brought forth an equally intensive program. Starting earlier than heretofore, the Direction Staff inaugurated the policy of presenting four instead of the customary three one-act plays each week with approximately three major productions a term. This has offered to the eighty members of the club and over two hundred undergraduates unusual opportunities to study and practice all branches of theatrical work.

The first major production of the year was also the first public performance in America of Pirandello's

The third major production was one of the eighteenth century, Richard Brinsley Sheridan's The Critic. The Club sponsored a Clavilux Recital in Bailey Hall, with the inventor, Thomas Wilfred, at the keyboard.

Among the one-act plays produced were: Where The Cross Is Made, by Eugene O'Neill; The Drawback, by Maurice Baring; How He Lied to Her Husband, by George Bernard Shaw; Fame and the Poet, by Lord Dunsany; Por O' Broth, by W. During the academic year of 1926-1927, the Cornell Debate Council, under the managership of Robert D. Jones, '28, participated in one international and two inter-collegiate contests. The season opened on November 8th, when a Cornell team composed of R. D. Jones, '28, S. S. Kirshner, '28, and H. C. Mansfield, '27, opposed a Cambridge team which upheld the negative side of the question, Resolved: That this house deplores the present tendency of governments to invade the rights of individuals. By a scant majority, the audience voted in favor of the Cambridge speakers.

On the 11th of December, the team which had met Cambridge journeyed to Williams College, again defending the affirmative side of the Government-versus-Individual question. The Pittsfield audience, unconvinced by the Cornell eloquence, decided in favor of governments by a large majority.

The last debate of the year took place on the 29th of March, when a Cornell team met the Syracuse debaters at Syracuse. The proposition was, Resolved: That the government of New York State should be reorganized in accordance with certain specified provisions, the Cornellians taking the negative side of the issue. This meet marked the close of a season which was unique in that all the debates were conducted under the Oxford system, according to which there is no judging of the contestants, the opinion of the audience being the deciding factor.

During the year the University offers to the students of the several colleges many opportunities to attain individual honors in elocution through competition for the various prizes for proficiency in public speaking. The contest for the 13th Annual Fuertes Memorial awards held on April 16th, 1926, was the first of these opportunities and was entered by seven students in the colleges of Engineering and Architecture; W. R. Bentley, '26, J. C. Johnson, '26, M. N. Ripley, '26, J. R. Zehner, '26, D. S.

Milton Harvey Friedman, '26, on The Scholar in the State, won the 56th Woodford Oratorical Contest held in the University Theatre on May 11th.

Eight members of the classes in Public Speaking, selected after a series of preliminaries, took part in the 14th Annual '86 Memorial Prize Contest in Declamation, on May 25th. The Committee of Award decided in favor of Joseph Weintraub, '28, whose topic was The Timid American.

On January 27th, 1927, the competitive speaking season of the current year opened with the 33rd '94 Memorial Prize debate. The proposition was, Resolved: That this house deplores the large part played by advertising in modern life. S. S. Kirshner, '28, considered the most effective debater, was awarded first place.

After a lapse of nine years, the Rochester Stage contest was revived on January 13th, 1927, to be won by Miss M. M. Leaming, '27. This event and the final contest of the season, the 18th Annual Eastman Stage, were limited to entrants from the College of Agriculture only. G. F. Britt, '27, took first prize in the Eastman event with a speech entitled Darkness Before Dawn.

The Spring Review

Military

Organized in 1868 with but two or three small companies, the Cadet Corps is this year passing its fifty-eighth milestone. It has grown to be a brigade of 2,000 men, comprising an Infantry regiment, a Field Artillery regiment, a Signal company, an Ordnance unit, a Veterinary unit, and a Band. While originally only slightly affiliated with the United States Army, the Corps is now in close co-operation with the War Department through the Defense Act of 1916 and is under the tutelage of seventeen regular army officers.

The Military Department has two primary objects in view: first, to give all underclassmen a general grounding in military training; and second, to qualify a limited number of upperclassmen to be United States Reserve Officers. That it does accomplish these aims is borne out by Cornell's splendid record in the World War.

The year 1925-1926 closed with the Spring Review on May 14th, at which time the tank "America," gift of the British Government to the University, was dedicated by Major L. L. Seaman, '72, as a memorial to Cornellians killed in the War. Subsequent to this ceremony the Corps formed on Upper Alumni Field and was reviewed by President Farrand and Major Seaman.

During the summer most of the advanced course men attended training camps lasting six weeks, the Infantry going to Plattsburg, the Artillery to Madison Barracks, the Signal Corps to Fort Monmouth, and the Ordnance to Aberdeen Proving Grounds. At camp the embryo reserve officers obtained a taste of field military life and received a thorough preparation for holding cadet commissions the following year.

The first special occasion of the ensuing year was the Armistice Day Parade on November 11th. Following a memorial service in De Witt Park, an R.O.T.C. unit of Infantry, Artillery, and Signal Corps troops and the Band participated in the march through the business district of the city in company with the American Legion and other patriotic organizations.

On December 4th the Cadet Corps staged its annual Winter Review, the entire brigade being massed in the Drill Hall and passing in review before President Farrand, who afterward addressed the Cadets. In this review the new colors of the Infantry Unit, presented at Plattsburg last summer, were carried for the first time in Ithaca.

Realizing the efficacy of "visual education," the Military Department recently inaugurated the use of numerous motion picture films in instructing the Cadets, affording a useful and pleasant change in the program.

This year the Athletic Council recognized Rifle Shooting as an intercollegiate sport and provided for the award of appropriate insignia. With this added stimulus and one of the officers devoting his full time as coach, a strong varsity team has been developed besides the R.O.T.C. team and the women's team. Very creditable scores have been made in telegraphic matches fired with several of the leading colleges of the country.

To promote riding and horsemanship the officers of the Artillery Unit have for several seasons conducted a horse show. This year it was made a spring instead of an autumn event because of weather conditions. The Cornell Horse Shows have attracted many local and out-of-town equestrians and some spirited performances have been witnessed on Upper Alumni Field. During the year the Artillery Unit acquired 21 new saddle horses, making a total of 69 mounts in its stables.

While the R.O.T.C. no longer competes for the rating of "Distinguished College" because of lack of time, the Corps still maintains the high standards set when it wore the gold stars.

Athletics

ROMEYN BERRY, '04, Graduate Manager of Athletics. During the seven years that he has served in this position he has accomplished much in bettering the general athletic situation. To further his ideal of promoting the physical well being of the community, he has steadily developed intramural athletics and improved the winter sports center on Beebe Lake. His work in bettering the physical equipment of the Athletic Association and securing the best of coaches is only a part of his work for Cornell.

The Fun of Sport

The chief end of sport is fun.

The doctrine is now preached that to achieve fun sport must be conducted in a spirit of pallid diletantism and that preparation for contests should stop short of mortification of the flesh and the stern suppression of individual caprice.

But where is ultimate fun to be found? Certainly not in losing games to lesser men through lack of effort in preparation.

Joy comes to the oarsman on that day when, as the reward of endless drill, the shell becomes a leaping, living thing. His agony of the body is itself pure joy in the last victorious spurt.

The fun of football comes at that moment when you realize the drudgery has not been in vain, that the plays are working for consecutive gains, and that an alert, co-ordinated defense is stopping the opposition dead in its tracks.

The ultimate joy of distance running comes when you meet the challenge on the back stretch and you find that all those weary miles on the Ithaca hills have given you the extra ounce of stamina that is going to bring you home a champion.

The chief end of sport is fun. It is wise—and good form—to cultivate a pose of casualness off the field. But when the whistle blows for contest or practice there is no place for casualness on a varsity squad. When a man becomes a candidate for a team he ceases to be a free agent and becomes the representative of his college. For that honor he must pay the price in self-sacrifice, loss of individuality, and sustained effort. And his ultimate joy comes with the discovery that he has not paid the price in vain. He will find no lasting satisfaction in making a frivolous, effortless, shirking romp of practice.

Russell Wins 100 Yard Dash in Intercollegiates

International Newsreel

1926-27 Varsity

Outstanding in Cornell Athletics of the past year were the winning of the Dartmouth football game in the last period, Russell's supremacy among college sprinters, and the success of the Athletic Association in putting over the first Indoor Intercollegiate Lawn Tennis Tournament. Cornell may point with pride to these achievements as well as to the accomplishments of the Red and White representatives in other fields of sport.

The Varsity Football team came through its season with only one loss against its record, to Columbia, when it failed to show the traditional Cornell come-back. It proved its mettle, however, by overcoming a lead of sixteen points in thirteen minutes to win over Dartmouth by one point on Carey's field goal in the last minute of play. A tie with Penn, after leading for three periods, ended a successful season during which six games were won.

In Track, Moakley's men succeeded in placing sixth in the Indoor Intercollegiates and eighth in the Outdoors, mainly through Russell's phenomenal victories in the sprints. After losing the Triangular Indoor meet to Harvard and Dartmouth and the Dual Indoor meets with Yale and Michigan, the team improved, winning the outdoor meets against Pennsylvania and M. I. T. by wide margins. Combined with Princeton against the Oxford-Cambridge team, Cornell men won four first places of the five won by the Americans. The Cross Country team won easily over Dartmouth in their only dual meet and placed seventh in the Intercollegiates, with Benson, star sophomore harrier, winning fourth place in a field of noted distance runners.

Sports Review

On the diamond, Cornell's 1926 Baseball team displayed remarkable offensive ability, scoring 108 runs to opponents' 110, and improved slightly over the previous season by winning seven games, losing twelve, and tying one out of the twenty games played. The Cornellians beat Penn in the final game of the season for its only Quadrangular Cup win. The Navy ended a disappointing season, in which the victory over California was the only bright spot, by finishing eighth in the Poughkeepsie Regatta, the first time a Cornell Varsity crew had finished last.

While the Basketball team did not reach its top form early in the season, the results of the games in mid-season, and especially during the latter part, show that Cornell had a strong aggressive team, capable of beating the strongest of its opponents in the league. Deveau's goal shooting ability kept him among the leading scorers.

In the realm of Minor Sports, Cornell was quite successful, due mainly to the efficiency of the coaching staff. The Wrestling and Fencing teams made very good showings, winning the majority of their meets. Coach Bawlf's 1926 Lacrosse team won five of its seven games, while his Soccer team succeeded in beating Princeton, Hamilton, and Lehigh and lost games to Syracuse and to Penn by the slim margin of one goal. The Hockey team, lacking practice due to poor ice conditions, defeated only Syracuse, and lost the other six games.

The 1926 Tennis team, for the first time under Faulkner's tutelage, won five of its six matches, losing only to the strong Princeton team. The 1927 team, which took part in the Indoor Intercollegiates, won second place in the team standing, while the doubles team, made up of Garretson and Captain Eggman won the championship in their class.

Cheerleading

This year the cheerleading has improved remarkably, due mainly to the greater co-operation of the stands and to the elimination of organized cheering where it is obviously undesirable, at football returns and baseball games. Starting the football season with five cheerleaders and one head cheerleader, the squad was kept intact and made both trips with the football team. Before the Penn game the cheerleaders took charge of the best rally and parade to the station that Cornell has witnessed in years. Two regulars and two Sophomore competitors led cheers at all the basketball games, and the full squad led at the indoor track meet with Yale.

The Sophomore competition for cheerleaders opens in December and continues until March. During this time two competitors and two Juniors lead cheers at all basketball games. One Junior has charge of each game, thus preparing him for the position of head cheerleader in his Senior year. In March three or four Junior members are chosen from the Sophomore competition and one head cheerleader is elected from among the Juniors.

The success of cheering depends upon the support of the entire crowd in the stands. Organized cheering concentrates the efforts of the group to the best advantage. The purpose of the cheerleaders is to keep the group together, but it is the crowd in the stands and not the cheerleaders who support and help the team. The cheering depends upon every man in the stands. The Dartmouth game was an example of successful co-operation on the part of the crowd.

The introduction of specialties, such as cart wheels and flips, in cheerleading has drawn greater response and interest from the students. Better training and more careful selection of men for cheerleaders indicates that cheerleading is winning its place among the major activities of Cornell.

Captain

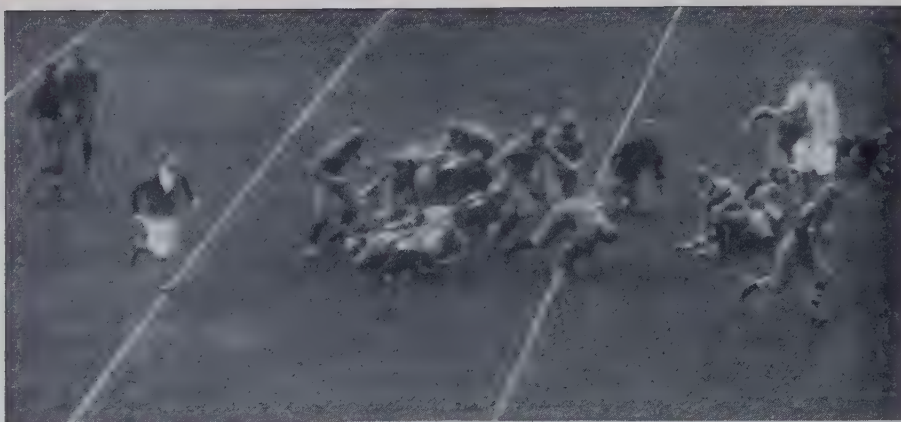

GILMOUR DOBIE, Coach of Football. During the seven years that he has guided the Red and White elevens Cornell has lost nine and won forty-six games, going through the 1921, 1922 and the 1923 seasons undefeated. His untiring efforts and his expert instruction have been instrumental in bringing about the success of Cornell elevens. Cornell is very fortunate in having as coach this quiet, taciturn, and keen-thinking leader, who has produced winning teams.

The 1926 Football Season

At the start of practice on Labor Day Coach Dobie was faced with the problem of moulding a strong Red and White team from the few veterans and substitutes at his command. Good material was scarce. Among the dozen letter men available there was not a single backfield man of outstanding ability at that time. The wings also presented a difficult problem, which remained unsolved until the Michigan State game, when Wickham and Schoales proved an excellent combination. The prospects of the line seemed good, with Anderson finally winning a berth as tackle. By careful experiment and judicious shifting Dobie succeeded in building up a team which played praiseworthy football and held its own throughout a successful season. Only one loss, to Columbia, marred the record, while the victory over Dartmouth and the tie with Penn were outstanding.

In the first game of the season Cornell defeated McMillan's rugged Geneva eleven, the strongest opening opponent in some years, by the slim margin of 6 to 0. The Red and White was weak in punting and aerial work, and for a time failed to show the rhythm and precision characteristic of a Dobie attack, but after doggedly threatening the visitors' goal four times succeeded in battering its way to victory.

Niagara was unable to cope with the Cornell off-tackle combination on the following Saturday, and lost, 28 to 0. A light Williams eleven tried valiantly to stop Cornell on October 9, but was hopelessly outclassed. Cornell's backs were in exceptionally good form with Butterfield and Hoekelman bearing the burden of the attack. This was the last appearance against Cornell of a Williams team, for two weeks later the Williamstown authorities cancelled all games with major universities.

During the first part of the game with Michigan State the following week Cornell displayed a powerful and well-timed offensive which swept all before it, but the ferocity of the attack dwindled as the game wore on. In the opening period Cornell gained 70 yards by sheer force for its first score, and followed it with another touch-down and a field goal, gains being made by end runs and line bucks. The work of Butterfield in the backfield and Munns and Anderson on the line was superb. With the score 17 to 0 against them, the green-jerseyed players began to fight. Smith's forward passes to Deacon gave State two touch-downs. Michigan's hope of victory, however, was dispelled when Rapuano intercepted Smith's daring heave from behind his goal line, and Gassner took the ball over for a touch-down to make the final score 24 to 14.

Cornell's first real test of the year came with the encounter against Columbia in New York. The first quarter was near its end when Cornell started its first powerful drive, and Hoekelman broke through Columbia's line for a 20 yard gain. The determined Red and White team succeeded in carrying the ball to the 2 yard line, but there the Lions doggedly kept them from making a touchdown, and obtained the ball on downs. Reiger's punt from behind his goal line was partially blocked and the Cornellians received credit for a safety. When the Big Red Team again obtained the ball on Columbia's 39 yard line they eagerly followed up their advantage. The Blue and White line wavered under the pounding of the Cornell backs, and the Dobiemen made three downs in short order. The Lions temporarily checked Cornell's onward rush, but soon Molinet broke through center to make the Ithacans' lone touchdown. Carey's kick made the score 9 to 0. The line play of Carey and Munns was exceptionally good.

Not the least bit disheartened the Columbia team came back in the second half with a rush to make two touchdowns and a field goal to finally win the game. Furey sent the Columbia fans into a frenzy by snatching the ball out of Rosenberg's hands and running 45 yards down the field for a touchdown. Shortly afterwards Rieger on a fake pass shot outside the Cornell right tackle and made a sensational dash of 70 yards for Columbia's second touchdown.

Captain Madden's field goal clinched the first Blue and White victory over Cornell in twenty-one years.

An unimpressive Cornell eleven overwhelmed a far inferior St. Bonaventure team to win, 40 to 0, in the next game. Gassner's run of 55 yards for a touchdown, Isaly's forward passes, and the play of the Cornell line were the high lights of the game.

On November 13 Cornell met the Dartmouth combination, and after trailing behind for three quarters, with one great rally broke loose and ran amuck among the Hanoverians to win, 24 to 23, Carey's goal from the field in the last minute of play deciding the game. Early in the first period Holleran broke through to fall on an unsuccessful punt on Cornell's 30 yard line. Two plays later a fake forward pass gave Lane a touchdown. Dooley kicked the goal. Cornell came back with a will, and a perfect pass, Isaly to Gassner, was followed by Butterfield breaking through the opposing left tackle for Cornell's first touchdown. During the second period a pass from the 40 yard line to Cole gave the New Englanders their second touchdown, and Cornell's hopes grew dim. In this same period Dooley missed a field goal which would have brought victory to the Green. Evans and Rapuano were the Cornell defensive stars.

An exchange of punts in the second half gave the advantage to Dartmouth. Dooley caught Balderston's return punt and reached Cornell's 15 yard line before being downed. The Dartmouth star then passed to Lane, who raced across the goal line. Dooley's kick was wide. Before the third quarter ended, with the injection into the game of Hoekelman and Molinet, Cornell had succeeded in battering to within five yards of the opposing goal. Balderston added a yard, and Molinet gained two more before his final rush which took it over. The Green line was cracking, and the famous Cornell rally had started. The stands were seething with excitement as Hoekelman hit guard for the third score, and Carey calmly kicked the goal. Cornell was trailing by only two points. Balderston's perfect pass to Wickham for forty yards placed the ball within scoring distance. Hoekelman and Molinet made another first down, with goal to go. Cornell refused to take chances, and after two tries at the line, which gained six yards, Captain Carey kicked the goal which won the game. Cornell had overcome a lead of 16 points in 13 minutes to win!

nell and then Penn would gain an advantage. For the first three periods, Cornell held the Penn eleven in check with the line proving itself a stone wall. The first period was almost over when Cornell got the first break in the game, and secured the ball on Penn's 38 yard line. Balderston then passed to Molinet, who carried the ball to the Quakers' 17 yard line. Again the Cuban took the ball, cracked the Penn right tackle, and after stumbling to the three yard line, rolled across the goal as the Penn players fell on him. Pandemonium reigned in the Cornell stands as Carey kicked his last point after touchdown. Not once in three years of Varsity football did the Cornell captain miss his try for goal. During the second quarter the contest was at a deadlock.

Shortly after the second half began, Balderston kicked to Rogers, who muffed the punt. Schoales recovered the ball on the seven yard line. The Penn line was desperate, and Molinet and Beck failed to gain. By sacrificing four yards Balderston took the ball in front of the goal posts, from where Carey scored a field goal. In the fourth quarter, Douglas, who had replaced Rogers, led the attack against a lax Cornell defense. By his spectacular 65 yard run from scrimmage Wascolonis showed that Cornell was not impregnable, and Penn secured its first score. The Quakers gained new confidence. From his 33 yard line Paul Scull drop-kicked the ball between the uprights to tie the score. Penn now made mighty ef-

"HANK" RUSSELL
Captain

JOHN F. MOAKLEY, Coach of Track. The foremost track mentor in this country, he is the "Grand Old Man" of Cornell Athletics. During his twenty-six years of coaching Cornell has won nine track and seventeen cross country championships, together with permanent possession of the Intercollegiate Track Championship Cup. Under his tutelage such famous stars as Jones, the Brown brothers, Berna, and Russell, last year's outstanding intercollegiate sprinter, have made their way to fame. Jack Moakley has instilled in track an interest and spirit, which with his sterling ability and his untiring efforts, have contributed in a large degree to the success of Cornell Athletics.

The 1926 Track Season

Although Cornell did not have a brilliant season in 1926, it will be long remembered because of the consistent team work and fine individual performances. Captain Russell, in breaking a world's record, one intercollegiate record, and tying another, stamped himself as the best college sprinter in the country, and placed himself in the Cornell Hall of Fame beside such track luminaries as Jones, Berna, Dresser, Foss, and Lovejoy. The strength of the Red and White team was in the sprints with Russell and Goodwillie, the pole vault with Dodd and Reed, and the high jump with Bradley. The splendid performances of these, together with the good work of Werly, Higley, Murray, Cohen, Weir, and Wenzel contributed to the success of the 1926 track season.

Cornell had its first chance to show the strength of its track team in the annual Triangular Indoor Meet at Boston, February 27, against Dartmouth and Harvard. Harvard with its well-balanced squad took first honors easily. Dartmouth won second place, nosing out Cornell by four points. The Red and White team captured but two first places, Cohen winning the 35-pound weight event, while Murray took first place in the 16-pound shot put.

New York Cornell again failed to show any hopeful strength, the Varsity scoring only 11 1-2 points to finish sixth. The individual feature performance was turned in by Captain Russell, who captured first place in the 70-yard dash with the remarkably fast time of 7 1-5 seconds, only 1-10 of a second over the world's record. The Cornell mile relay team won second place, losing by a scant margin at the finish of a most thrilling race.

On March 13 Yale defeated Cornell in their Third Annual Indoor Meet in the Drill Hall, 59 5-6 to 53 1-6. The teams battled on even terms until the turning point of the meet when Higley lost the half mile run by a scant two yards. Russell won the 70 yard dash easily. Bradley turned in his best performance of the year when he took first place in the high jump, establishing a new dual meet record. The mile relay race was the feature of the evening with the outcome in doubt until the final turn when the Yale runner faltered, and Werly crossed the finish line about ten yards ahead. It was a fitting close for an exciting meet in which two local and five dual meet records were broken.

In the last meet of the indoor season held in the Drill Hall, Cornell was overwhelmed by Michigan's powerful team. The Wolverines jumped into an early lead which they gradually increased during the evening. The star performance, however, was turned in by Captain Russell, who broke a world's indoor record by covering the 75 yards in 7 2-5 seconds. In the high jump Berry and Bradley of Cornell tied for first place, while in the pole vault Dodd shared first honors with Northrup of Michigan. which the Maize and Blue team set a new track record of 3 minutes 28 seconds. The meet was marked by the setting of five new track records.

The outdoor season began with the Penn Relays held at the end of April. The best Cornell's representatives could do was to place second in the half mile relay race, pressing the Eli quartet so closely, however, that they forced the Yale runners to cover the distance in record breaking time.

In the Penn dual meet Cornell broke the deadlock of eleven victories each during an afternoon featured by upsets which finally threw the balance to Cornell after Penn had secured a lead in the early events. Captain Russell was the high scorer for the Red and White team, winning both dash events. The spectacular contest of the meet was the two mile run, won by Pond, with his teammates, Houghton and Vanderbrook, second and third, all coming from behind during the last two laps. Penn was leading at the end of the first four events by a margin of 16 points, but clean sweeps by the Cornellians in the 220-yard dash, the two mile run, the pole vault, together with first and second places in the 100-yard dash and the high jump, carried the Ithacans to a clear cut victory over the Red and Blue.

A second dual meet was held with M.I.T. the following week at Cambridge. Scoring heavily in second and third places, and cleaning up in the sprints and the high jump, Cornell succeeded in decisively defeating the Tech men, 76 to 59.

The regular outdoor track season came to a close with the Intercollegiates held at Cambridge. Russell, by his sensational running, clearly showed that he was the outstanding sprinter in the country. In winning the 100-yard dash, the Cornell captain equalled the I. C. A. A. A. A. record of 9 7-10 seconds. In the 220-yard event Russell set a new meet record. He stepped the distance in 21 seconds flat, clipping 1-5 of a second from a record which had stood for thirty years. His time, however, was not allowed for a new mark in this dash, owing to the possible aid of a slight breeze. Russell's victories, with Wenzel's fourth place in the hammer throw, gave Cornell twelve points and eighth place.

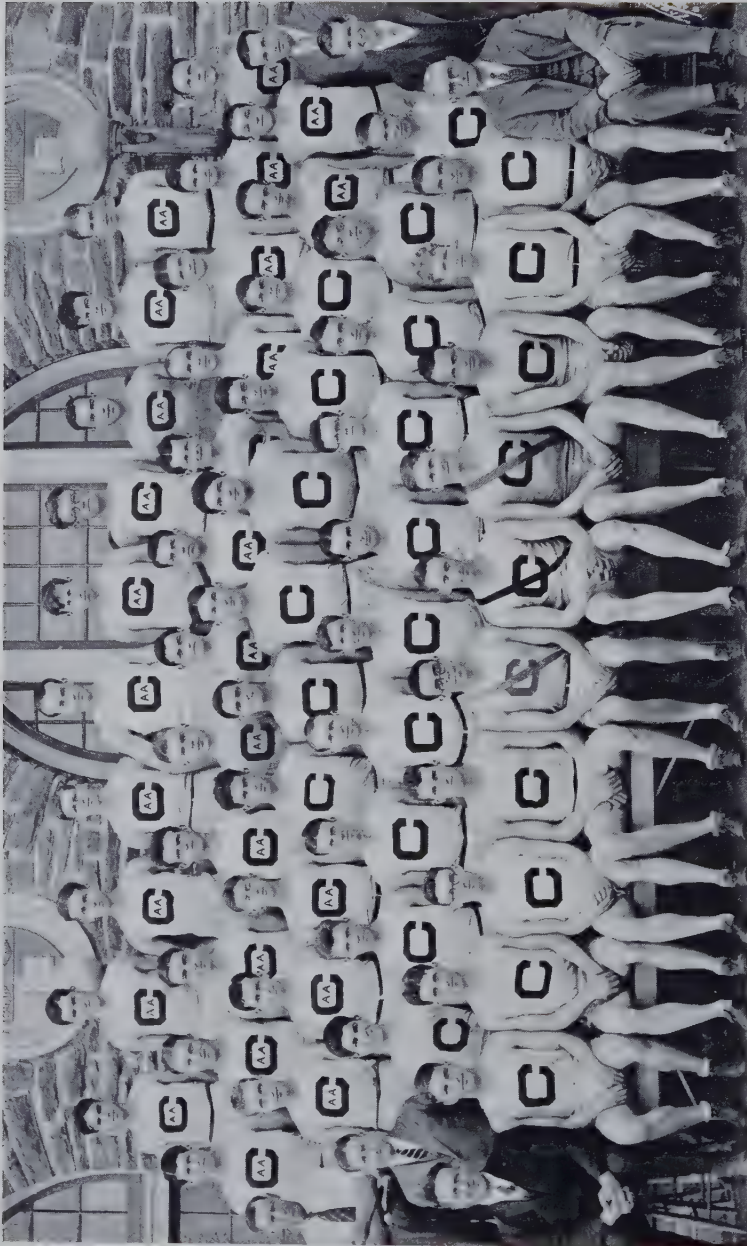

Benson Wins Dartmouth Cross Country Run

Morgan

In a meet characterized by good sportsmanship and keen competition, the combined track teams of Cornell and Princeton were defeated by the Oxford-Cambridge combination, 7 to 5, on July 10 at Stamford Bridge, England. Cornell made a very creditable showing, winning four first places. Captain Russell, true to form, won both dashes, showing his heels to Porritt, the English sprinting star. Sullivan won the shot put for Cornell, and Bontecou tied with Bradley of Princeton for first honors in the pole vault. The performances of Goodwillie and Benson in the quarter and two mile races were noteworthy. The competition was much keener than the previous meet at Atlantic City, with the outcome in doubt until the Britons had won the half mile run, one of the last events on the program.

Among the outstanding team achievements during the season were the success of the Varsity at the Indoor Intercollegiates in placing ahead of Dartmouth, which had secured second place from the Cornellians in the Triangular Meet of the week before, the victories by wide margins over Pennsylvania and M. I. T. in the Outdoor dual meets, and the performances of the Red and White representatives in the International Meet against the combined Oxford-Cambridge team. These feats, together with the phenomenal sprinting of Russell and the outstanding work of Wenzel in the Outdoor Intercollegiates and Bontecou and Sullivan in the International Meet aided in making a success of the 1926 track season.

THE 1927 CORNER MAN

BASEBALL

P O R T E R

"BUGS" MERRILL
Captain

PAUL W. ECKLEY, '17, Coach of Baseball. Now in his third year as Varsity Coach, he has been identified with Cornell Athletics for all of the ten years following his undergraduate days with the exception of those spent in the service of his country during the war. In his time he has been coach of freshman football, baseball, and basketball teams, and his success there merited the position of head baseball coach in 1925. His teams have improved steadily.

The 1926 Baseball Season

With eight letter men back for the first practice in February Coach Eckley began the difficult task of building a winning ball team. The loss of Captain Davis at short-stop, Brown, Wright, and Henderson, regular pitchers, and Stirling and Greenbaum, first string backstops, had to be filled before the beginning of the season in April. Practising in the cage throughout the period before the Southern trip, the team slowly rounded into shape. Coach Eckley's chief concern was his untried staff of pitchers, for, with the exception of Vitale, none of the hurlers had seen previous service.

In the opening game in the South, Pyle held the Lynchburg College team to five scattered hits and three runs, while Cornell scored nine runs by excellent hitting. Gaining a four run lead in the opening frame of the contest against Virginia Military Institute on the following day, the Varsity won easily by a 10 to 4 margin. The Cadets turned the tables the next day by winning, 9 to 7. Cornell made a powerful bid for victory by scoring four runs in the seventh and three more in the eighth, but to no avail. Rain halted the game with Washington and Lee in the sixth inning with the Generals leading, 6 to 2. A great pitching duel between Vickers and Maben was the feature of the second game with Washington and Lee. The Cornell hurler struck out ten, while his teammates were able to gather only two hits off the Washington and Lee portsider. The count was 1 to 1 at the close of the tenth inning when the game was called. The final contest of the southern tour brought a 6 to 5 defeat at the hands of the strong Georgetown nine. With a record of two victories, three defeats, and a tie, the showing of the team was rather mediocre. Vickers showed promise as a hurler, while Merrill, Baker, Trefts, and Shaw could be counted upon to hit with fair regularity.

Playing an excellent brand of baseball, the Varsity nine opened the regular season with a decisive victory over Niagara on Hoy Field, April 21, winning 12 to 3. Three days later Cornell dropped a 13 to 8 slugging match to the Princeton nine. The hardhitting Orange and Black bunched its fifteen hits and knocked two Cornell pitchers out of the box. An equal number of safe blows were collected by the home aggregation, but were too scattered to have the necessary effect.

On the following Saturday the Varsity was bested by the strong Columbia nine in an 8 to 10 encounter in New York. The next game was lost in the closing innings to Dartmouth, 5 to 4, at Hanover. Smarting from these defeats, the home team won from the Syracuse batsmen in a thrilling 6 to 5 game on Hoy Field, May 5. Merrill's three base hit in the eighth inning started the winning rally. In a loosely played game on Hoy Field on the following Saturday the Varsity lost for the second time to Dartmouth, 12 to 8. Ten Dartmouth hits and six Cornell errors accounted for the Green's large score. Consistent hitting by Rossomondo, Shaw, Baker, and Balderston was not enough to overcome the losses sustained through misplays.

A 12 to 5 victory over Ohio State on the home grounds, May 12, more than avenged last season's 4 to 0 defeat. Schaenen, pitching his first Varsity game, went the full route, allowing only seven hits. On May 12, at New Haven, the offerings of Holabird proved to be too much for the Red and White batsmen, and the Cornellians went down to a 3 to 0 defeat, collecting only three scattered blows. One week later the Varsity again bowed to the invincible pitching of Holabird who struck out ten men and allowed but one hit. Noble's homer with two men on the bases gave Yale the margin of victory, 4 to 1.

Syracuse proved a much stronger opponent in the return game at Syracuse and won 4 to 0 over the Varsity. On May 29 at Ithaca, Cornell's hopes for a victory were shattered when the Columbia batsmen overcame a one-run lead in the seventh inning.

The visitors crashed through for a total of four hits and three runs in that frame for a 5 to 4 win. Harrington and Vickers pitched for Cornell. In a poorly played contest on Hoy Field, June 11, the Cornellians lost to Pennsylvania, 7 to 10. Hits by Trefts, Wendt, Romaguera, and Balderston in the fourth inning netted four runs.

On the following day the erratic Cornell team played good baseball to win from Colgate, 2 to 1. Schaenen allowed the visitors only five scattered hits. Captain Merrill brought in both Cornell runs and turned in a creditable performance in the field. McConnell proved himself a hero by smashing out a homer after Balderston had singled in the eighth inning of the final game of the season against Pennsylvania on June 16. This feat was enough to give Cornell a 2 to 1 victory as Schaenen held Penn to eight scattered hits. Captain Merrill rounded off a fine season in the field by a daring catch of Lindsay's liner in the ninth.

The win over Pennsylvania was the only one of the Quadrangle Cup series secured during the season. Of the twenty games played, the Red and White won seven, lost twelve, and tied one, a slight improvement over the season before. That the play of the team was erratic is shown by the fact that only seven games were won and 108 runs were scored to opponents' 110. Further improvement may be looked for next season as there will be plenty of veteran material.

CREW

P O R T E R

"ED" ANDERSON
Commodore

JAMES WRAY, Coach of Crew. A native of Australia and the newest addition to Cornell's coaching staff, he succeeds Charles A. Lueder, '02. From 1906 to 1915 he was head rowing coach at Harvard, where his crews defeated Yale eight times. The advent of Coach Wray means abandonment of the attempt to carry on under associates and pupils of the late Charles Courtney, but insures the development of a new system which has succeeded elsewhere and should help Cornell regain her former rowing prestige.

The 1926 Crew Season

The fall of 1925 saw the beginning of the second year of coaching at Cornell by Dr. Charles A. Lueder, '02, with nearly two hundred men answering the call for candidates, forty-five of them being freshmen. With the exception of Krouse the entire 1925 Varsity was back, together with seven men from the Junior Varsity, and the whole Freshman crew.

The men were drilled daily on the inlet until early November when the increasing cold and the fast-shortening days drove the crews back up the hill to the Old Armory and the rowing machines. From this time until early February the practice was just sufficient to keep the men in proper physical condition. Regular practice was resumed immediately upon the opening of the second term.

An unusually cold spring made the ice conditions on the inlet so unfavorable that Cornell was the last eastern crew to take the water. It was not until the latter part of March before it was possible for the boats to be navigated on the inlet; in fact, the practice throughout the entire spring was handicapped by inclement weather. Three Varsity and two Freshman boats were retained to work throughout the spring vacation. On April twenty-third the new starboard-stroked shell was launched, Stagg being moved from stroke to bow, and Lange into the new stroke position. Coach Lueder felt that this new seating of the Varsity boat would greatly increase its efficiency.

The annual race with Yale and Princeton was scheduled for Navy Day, May 22. The powerful Yale Varsity was a strong favorite, while Cornell's Junior Varsity was considered to be better than the light crews of both Yale and Princeton. The day was cloudy and overcast, and a hard rain storm in the early afternoon tried to dampen the usual high spirit shown on Spring Day. It was after seven o'clock before the freshman crews left the mark, and in the meantime a stiff breeze had risen. The Cornell freshmen got off to a poor start during the maneuvering at the mark, but even under this handicap they led at the half-mile mark. The Princeton yearlings forged into the lead at the mile mark, but a steadily pulling Yale crew passed them not far from the finish of the two mile course. Cornell uncorked a sensational sprint in the final eighth-mile, barely missing overtaking Princeton for second place. All three crews suffered much by shipping water, the Yale and Princeton shells swamping on the way back to the boathouse. The other races had to be called off, leaving the power of the Varsity boat an unknown quantity.

The only changes that were made during the next week were in the Freshman boat, for although they made a better showing than was expected, it was thought that there was still room for improvement. The following Saturday the Varsity and Freshman crews took to the water on the Charles to row against Navy, Harvard, and M.I.T. There was no Junior Varsity race scheduled.

Varsity Race in Poughkeepsie Regatta

In the freshman race the Cornell boat was badly outclassed, finishing a poor fourth. The Varsity took a wonderful start in their mile and three-quarters race, and were leading even the crack Navy crew at the one mile mark. The pace was too stiff, however, for the Varsity, Navy forging ahead to win handily, while Harvard barely nosed out the Cornellians for second place.

The next race on the schedule was on June 11 against California, who were in Ithaca as guests of the Cornell Athletic Association, while preparing for the Poughkeepsie Regatta. The California Freshmen won the first race easily. In the three mile race both the Varsities and the Junior Varsities rowed at the same time. The Cornell Varsity took the lead in the early stages of the race and gradually increased it to win by three lengths over the California Varsity, which was only half a length ahead of the California Junior Varsity. Cornell's Junior Varsity, with its crack stroke, Emerson, out with a leg injury, was never a factor after the first two miles, and finished last.

After another week of strenuous practice the Varsity, Junior Varsity, Freshman, and Substitute crews left for Poughkeepsie, where they had a week before the regatta, June 28, in which to grow accustomed to the waters of the Hudson. The Junior Varsity race was won by Washington, which, after trailing Penn for the first two miles, triumphed because of its superior staying power. California followed in third place with Syracuse finishing fourth. Cornell beat Columbia by three lengths to win fifth place.

Following the Freshman race, which was won by Columbia with Cornell in last place, came the Varsity. The Washington Huskies jumped into the lead at the start, holding it to the end, despite the magnificent final spurt of the Navy crew, which lost to the Westerners by a mere fraction of a boat length. Six lengths in the rear of the two masters came the six other crews, who had fought straight down the course as pretty a battle as had the leaders. Syracuse followed Washington and Navy in third place. Behind Syracuse in order came Penn, two and a half lengths behind, followed by Columbia, California, Wisconsin, and Cornell, so closely grouped that there were only five seconds between Penn and Cornell. For the first time in the history of the regatta a Cornell Varsity crew had finished last.

Within a few days after the regatta Coach Lueder tendered his resignation to the Athletic Association. With a new year, a fair amount of material, and the services of James Wray, former coach at Harvard, great things are expected of the Cornell Navy.

Due mainly to the ability of these coaches, Cornell basketball and minor sports teams have won their share of championships. The teams coached by these men are always to be reckoned upon for victories, for they have instilled into their teams a winning spirit through their individual efforts and untiring devotion to Cornell. Cornell is indeed fortunate to possess such a staff.

The first of them, HOWARD B. ORTNER, '19, Coach of Basketball, played on the Varsity quintet for three years as an undergraduate, captaining the team in his Senior year. The following year he became coach. Under his tutelage the Cornell fives have been consistent winners, finishing second in 1923 and first in 1924. His team this year furnished a mid-season sensation by toppling three league leaders in succession from first place.

The veteran in years of service here, WALTER C. O'CONNELL, '11, Coach of Wrestling, trained his first Cornell team while a law student in 1908. During the subsequent eighteen seasons O'Connell-coached Cornell teams have won the intercollegiate title eleven times, including a string of nine consecutive championships. This year's team, although lacking veterans, made a splendid showing. O'Connell's brilliant achievements have marked him as the premier wrestling coach in America.

NICHOLAS BAWLF, Coach of Soccer, Hockey, and Lacrosse, has injected into those sports much interest through his colorful personality and produced winners through his exceptional coaching ability. Since his arrival at Cornell in 1920 he has coached the soccer team to two second places in the Intercollegiate League and put forth consistently good teams in hockey and lacrosse, his 1926 lacrosse team winning five of its seven contests.

FRANCOIS DARRIEULAT, Coach of Fencing, began coaching Cornell teams in 1924. His previous records at the New York A. C. and the Washington Fencers' Club, and his achievement in turning out three intercollegiate championship teams in four years at the Naval Academy put him in the first rank of fencing coaches. This year's team made a very creditable showing under his tutelage, and prospects for the future are bright.

The newest addition to the Cornell Minor Sports coaching staff, EDWIN J. FAULKNER, Coach of Tennis, is acknowledged as one of the best tennis coaches in the country. Late in 1925 he came to Cornell from the Germantown Cricket Club. His advent has given rise to a wide-spread increase of interest in the net game. His efforts were largely responsible for the success of the Intercollegiate Indoor Tennis Tournament held in Ithaca this year. Coach Faulkner's first Varsity team won five victories in its six matches last spring.

The 1927 Basketball Season

With but Captain Winkler, Deveau, and Schlossbach as a nucleus, Coach Howard Ortner, '19, had a difficult task ahead of him when basketball practice got under way last fall. The new team showed occasional brilliance during its earlier games, but was generally ragged until mid-season, lacking the punch to take the lead at the start of contests or to stave off last-period rallies of opponents. Finally, however, the rough edges of passing, shooting, and guarding were smoothed off, and the team made a strong bid for the championship of the Intercollegiate League during the latter part of February, defeating Dartmouth, Penn, and Princeton in a row. But unable to continue to stand up against the keen opposition encountered, they lost the remaining games and were forced to finish just above last place in the league standing.

The Cornell five swung into action just before Christmas, dropping a 33 to 13 contest to Colgate at Hamilton on December 22. Coach Ortner used thirteen men in the game, but they could neither penetrate the Maroon defense nor stop their scoring machine. Nine days later the Varsity quintet assembled in Columbus to encounter Ohio State. Coach Olsen had built up a combination that outclassed the Red and White in all departments of the game, administering a 41 to 20 defeat. Wittenberg won over Cornell, 30 to 25, at Springfield on New Year's Day. Before the largest crowd that had ever witnessed a game in Buffalo the Varsity exhibited an improved brand of courtcraft against the University of Buffalo five, but a well-timed rally captured the game for the home team, 23 to 20. A disheartening defeat at the hands of the University of Rochester concluded the most discouraging Christmas trip in years. Cornell was in good form and led the Flower City outfit by 21 to 14 at half time, only to have a sensational Rochester spurt tie the score at 26—all just before the final whistle sounded. After two intensely exciting extra periods which featured the play of Tatelbaum and Schlossbach, Rochester emerged the victor by a 38 to 36 count.

THE 1927 CORNELL TEAM

Deveau

Schlossbach

Molinet

In the first home game of the season a rejuvenated Red and White five turned the tables on the Flower City quintet, ringing up a 37 to 24 triumph and showing marked improvement in every aspect of their play. After slumping in the first half of the next contest and allowing Carr and Hanson to pile up a big lead for Syracuse, Cornell found itself and crept to within one point of its opponents. Then the Orange reserve power asserted itself and the game went to Syracuse, 36 to 28.

On January 15 the Varsity opposed Columbia at New York in their initial Inter-collegiate League encounter. Again Cornell made a spectacular second half rally and again it fell just short of its mark. Close guarding by both teams accounted for the low score of the Lions' 16 to 10 win. The following week the Red and White staged a nip and tuck race with a much improved Yale team, which jumped into an early lead. Once more the home team lost the breaks of the game, being nosed out at the finish, 21 to 20, as Yale won its first basketball victory over Cornell in three years. The Pennsylvania courtmen journeyed to Ithaca to help entertain the Junior Week guests on February 5. The traditional contest furnished the best exhibition of basketball seen on the Drill Hall court in some time, Penn's teamwork proving especially effective and giving her a 37 to 31 decision. Schaaf and Deveau led the attack of their respective teams.

Scoring sixteen points, Deveau again scintillated as the Red and White chalked up their first League victory, beating Columbia 35 to 23 on the home floor. In this game the Varsity demonstrated that they had finally developed a smooth working and really formidable attack. Against the powerful Princeton quintet Cornell played impressively, but succumbed in the last minute of the final period when Gartner clinched a rough and exciting melee for Old Nassau, 22 to 20, with a basket from a difficult angle.

Bruckert

Masten

In the Dartmouth contest the Varsity inaugurated a spurt which dethroned three teams in succession from first place in the league. Exhibiting dash and determination, the Cornell five took the lead at the start and held it to the end, winning 23 to 19. With Molinet playing a stellar game at forward, the Red and White celebrated Washington's birthday by administering an 18 to 16 trimming to the Quakers, thus avenging their previous defeat at Penn's hands. Cornell's third consecutive victim was Princeton. Outplaying and outfighting the Orange and Black all the way, the home team turned back the league leaders, 20 to 17, in the most thrilling game of the season. Deveau was again in the limelight, a tower of strength on both offensive and defensive. Bruckert and Beck also played well for the Red and White.

W. J. JOYCE, JR., '27
Manager

The winning streak ended when the powerful Colgate team swept through the Drill Hall to a 35 to 15 victory. Slumping miserably, the Varsity was completely outclassed by the baffling attack and impregnable five-man defense of the Maroon team, led by Bollerman, their gigantic center. In a contest marred by fouls, Cornell lost its final chance for the League title by bowing to Dartmouth at Hanover. The Green's ability to score on free throws accounted for their margin of victory, 30 to 20. Against Yale at New Haven the Red and White concluded the season, dropping a second contest to the Blue. A brilliant Yale rally in the second half, after Cornell had led 9 to 6 at the end of the opening period, proved the downfall of the Ithacans and the decision went to the home team by a 24 to 19 tally.

From a standpoint of a winning percentage the season cannot be considered a success with five victories as against thirteen setbacks. But many of the defeats were hard-fought, thrilling battles which were lost in the closing moments of play, six of them by five points or less; the team was better than its percentage indicates.

The two outstanding features of the season were Cornell's sensational mid-season winning streak and Deveau's gallant bid for the intercollegiate scoring honors. Deveau finished third among the leading scorers with 67 points to his credit as compared with 72 for Simmen of Yale and 68 for Gartner of Princeton. Besides Deveau, Captain Winkler, Molinet, Bruckert, Schlossbach, and Beck did consistently well; the latter two will be back to form a nucleus for the 1927-28 team.

The 1926 Cross-Country Season

A light schedule, made up of only one dual meet, with Dartmouth, and the Intercollegiates, was before the 1926 team which began practicing at the opening of the Fall term. With Captain Houghton, Bissell, Vanderbrook, and Pond as a nucleus, and the addition of Benson, winner of the 1925 Freshman Intercollegiates, Coach Moakley had a strong but untried group around which to mould a team.

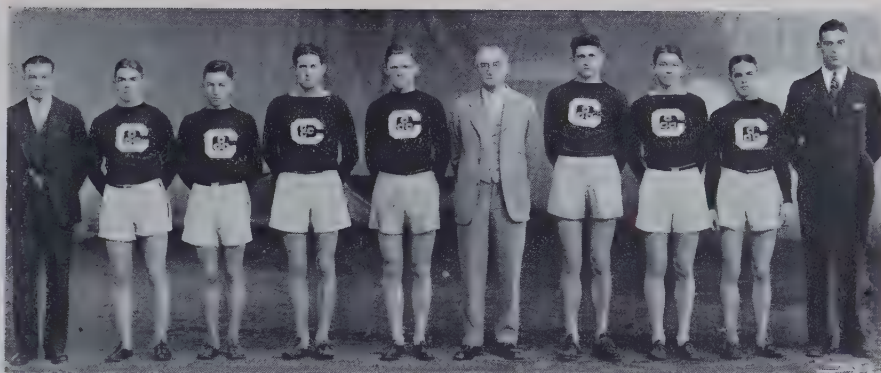

In the dual meet with Dartmouth at Ithaca on November 12, the Cornellians won a decisive victory, 38 to 73, with the Moakley harriers taking seven out of the first ten places. The wearers of the Green made a gallant bid for victory but could not stand the pace set by Benson, who took the lead at the very start of the five and one-half mile course, and increased it to win by a quarter of a mile in the excellent time of 29 minutes, 49 3-5 seconds. Pond passed Captain Auer of Dartmouth in the second half of the race, and held this lead to the finish. Fuller and Captain Houghton placed fourth and fifth respectively. Martin, the second Green runner to place, came in next. Behind him came Vanderbrook. Rhodes and Mordock came in ninth and tenth for Cornell. Worth crossed the line in eleventh place for Dartmouth and Tibbitts finished twelfth for the Red and White. Bissell of Cornell won thirteenth place by outspinting three Dartmouth runners at the finish. This meet marked the first Cornell victory over Dartmouth in three years of competition.

Over the six mile course in Van Cortlandt Park, on November 22, the Cornell runners finished seventh among the twenty-one teams entered in the Intercollegiates. Penn State won their first Varsity cross country championship by a slim margin of three points over Syracuse. Cox, the Nittany star, paced a pack of 104 runners from start to finish and breasted the tape in 30:04, thirty seconds better than the record set in 1925 by Tibbetts of Harvard. Smith of Yale, champion in 1924, trailed Cox in second place by forty yards, while Loucks of Syracuse came home third. Benson, Cornell's sensational sophomore, ran well to finish fourth.

Cornell's chances of a successful 1927 team are excellent. With five Varsity men returning, and with the addition of the strong freshman team, which placed second in the Freshman Intercollegiates, the Red and White should be represented by one of the best teams in the East.

GEIER
Captain

The 1927 Wrestling Team

With only Captain Geier returning from Cornell's 1926 championship team, Coach O'Connell, '11, developed a strong team which won five dual matches, tied one, and placed third at the Intercollegiates.

Showing unexpected strength, a fighting Springfield team held the Cornell grapplers to a 13 to 13 tie in the opening match at the Drill Hall. Geier in the 145 pound class and Josefson, a promising sophomore in the 115 pound division, obtained falls, while Cohen was awarded a decision over Johns, Springfield 125 pounder.

In a meet marred by an inexperienced referee and wrangling over decisions, the Red and White won, 13 to 12, over the powerful Columbia aggregation at New York, ending the Lions' winning streak of six successive matches. Falls by Captain Geier and Stafford and a time decision for Josefson gave Cornell enough points to win.

Geier went out of his class to score a fall in the 158 pound division against Long of Lehigh in the outstanding match of the meet against the Brown and White at Ithaca on February 19. The victory of Bowen, sophomore heavyweight, and time decisions to Pearson and Stafford gave Cornell a final 16 to 11 advantage over the visitors, after Lehigh had gained an early lead. Victories in all but the 125 and 135 pound classes for the Red and White wrestlers resulted in a 17 to 6 win over Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. Josefson obtained the only fall by throwing Harris easily in six minutes.

Facing a strong Penn State team in the Drill Hall on the following Saturday, the Varsity came through with its fourth consecutive victory, 12 to 9. Captain Geier registered his sixth straight win by gaining a decision over Ace in the 158 pound class. The victory of Munns over Garrison, a 220 pound giant, featured. Cornell won four bouts, two by falls and two by decisions, to score 16 points and decisively beat Syracuse in its last contest to maintain a clean slate in its dual matches for the season.

Collecting a total of 12 points, the Cornell team tied for third place with Syracuse at the Intercollegiates in Philadelphia on March 18 and 19. Captain Geier carried off the 145 pound championship, while Stanley and Stafford as runners-up and Josefson in third place in their respective divisions were other point winners for Cornell.

SHAW
Captain

When scrimmage opened in late September Coach Bawlf had four veterans, Captain Shaw, McCrohan, Kammerer, and Tonkonogy, around which to mould a smoothly running eleven. After only a week's practice Cornell met the Hamilton booters at Ithaca. The Cornellians assumed the offensive immediately, scoring after a minute of play, and thereafter kept scrimmage in Hamilton territory. With an irresistible attack the Red and White netted seven goals while holding the Clinton team scoreless.

In the next game at Lehigh the Brown and White sprung a surprise by scoring two goals in rapid succession before the Cornell defense could organize itself. Near the end of the first period Captain Shaw scored the first Cornell goal, which was followed by another by Olditch in the second quarter to tie the score. There followed an exciting series of ties and alternating leads until Shaw's second goal gave the Red and White a 5 to 4 triumph in the final minutes of play.

Cornell's next win was over a veteran Princeton eleven, champions of the previous year, in a close and exciting game. The Tigers took the lead in scoring, but Hall evened the tally with a skillful exhibition of footwork. A foul kick past the Princeton goal line and a goal by Princeton's star, Packard, again made the score even, where it stood until, with a few minutes to play, Hall booted in a pass from Shaw, winning for Cornell by a 3 to 2 margin. Krieger and Chapman were outstanding in the Cornell play.

On November 6, after an exciting contest which was decided only after two extra periods had been played, Cornell lost to Penn's powerful team by a 4 to 3 score. Penn started off with a rush and early in the second half was leading 3 to 1. At this point Cornell staged a desperate rally and evened the score on goals by Shaw and Hall. The first extra period passed with the deadlock unbroken, but in the second Buswell bounced the ball off his head into the net to give the game to Penn. Allen's work at goal was brilliant.

Fighting in the face of a heavy wind which prevented both teams from scoring after the first period, the Cornellians met the Orange at Syracuse in the final game of the season. Cornell strove vainly to overcome the opponents' one-goal lead, but could not change the 2 to 1 score.

A well-developed co-ordination, aggressive offence, and effective defence featured a season that was entirely satisfactory in performance with only two games lost, to Syracuse and Penn by one goal margins, and three games won over strong opponents.

ROLLINS
Captain-Elect

The 1926 Lacrosse Season

With Captain Bamman, Bowdish, Hermann, Kearney, Robbins, and Rollins as a nucleus Coach Bawlf developed a smooth-running, powerful lacrosse team which started the season with a victory over Colgate, 6 to 2, on April 17. The Cornellians early took the contest into Maroon territory and during the first half succeeded in garnering 4 points, chiefly through the accurate shooting of Hermann. The scintillating work of Hecht, the Maroon goal-guard, checked Cornell's attack in the second half and permitted the Colgate forwards to score twice.

In the Harvard game the following week the Varsity again showed excellent form in continually working the ball into Harvard territory, winning easily, 6 to 0. McCrohan, clearing a spirited scrimmage, opened the scoring against the close Crimson defense. He was followed in quick succession by Tilton, Bowdish, and Hermann. Harvard rallied in the second half and by exhibiting the power that defeated the Oxford-Cambridge team held the Cornellians to two goals. The features of the game were the brilliant co-ordination of the Cornell offense and Harvard's second-half rally.

During the first part of the game with Pennsylvania, the Red and Blue succeeded in holding the Cornellians scoreless. After twenty minutes of play Harrison, by clever work, succeeded in netting the first Cornell goal. Hermann followed with two goals and two more were added before Moore succeeded in eluding the Red and White defense to score Penn's only tally. A beautiful long double pass, Tilton to Rollins to Bowdish, completed the six points scored by Cornell.

Syracuse displayed excellent team work in defeating the Red and White, 9 to 0. The Orange had possession of the ball for the greater part of the contest and was constantly the aggressor. The next contest was lost to the Navy twelve at Ithaca, 3 to 0. The Midshipmen had a hard-playing machine that jumped into an early three point lead. The latter half of the game went scoreless, despite the frequent attempts of Captain Bamman and Bowdish to tally. Doing did well at the Cornell goal position.

Cornell played its best game in defeating the strong Penn State team, 7 to 4, at State College. Rollins and McCrohan played effectively in feeding the ball continually to the Cornell attack. In the last game of the season Hobart was overwhelmingly defeated, 10 to 2. Hermann, Tonkonogy, and Rollins penetrated the Orange and Purple defense to tally almost at will.

HOYT

The 1927 Hockey Season

Cornell's 1927 Hockey season was opened with a slow and uninteresting contest against Clarkson Institute of Technology, January 8, which Cornell lost by a 2 to 1 score. Bubier registered the only tally for the Red team, while the Cornell net was capably guarded by Nash.

Showing marked improvement, the Red and White blanked Syracuse on Beebe Lake a week later for its only victory of the season. Displaying excellent teamwork, the Cornell sextet presented a speedy and persistent attack, which humbled the Orange players 4 to 0. Bubier accounted for two of the scores, while Captain Hoyt and Houghton each accounted for one.

On January 22 at Princeton, Cornell proved no match for the Orange and Black, the latter being an easy 8 to 1 victor. A large Junior Week crowd witnessed the contest with Williams on Beebe Lake, February 5, in which Cornell finished on the small end of a 4 to 2 score after two extra periods of play. Nash again played the leading role in protecting the net from the Purple forwards, while Captain Hoyt played a fine offensive game.

Cornell met the fast and powerful Dartmouth sextet on Beebe Lake, February 7, with the Green winning, 5 to 0. The playing of Nash was the outstanding feature of the day.

In the speediest and fiercest fought rink contest of the season, played on Beebe Lake, February 19, St. Lawrence secured two goals while Cornell scored only one. Team play on Cornell's part was missing, and lack of practice on account of poor weather conditions showed plainly. Rough playing on the part of players of both teams caused frequent penalties during the course of the game. Captain Hoyt was the bulwark of the Red and White attack.

The best game of the season was played with Hamilton at Clinton, February 26. Although the Ithacans lost, they showed marvelous stamina in competing with the speedier Buff and Blue sextet, and held it to two goals, while scoring once. Bubier was the fastest man on skates and frequently penetrated the Hamilton defense. Nash, Taylor, Kingsbury, and Clark displayed skill during the contest.

Although beaten six times, three defeats by a margin of only one goal, Cornell showed great progress and improvement during the season, developing several players that rank favorably with the best in intercollegiate circles, and training a number of others that will form a good nucleus for the 1928 team.

CHARDON
Captain

The 1927 Hockey Season

With Captain Chardon, Good, Pirone, and Robbins, all skilled and veteran fencers, available from the 1926 team, and Pulvino, an epee man of the 1925 team returning, Coach Francois Darrieulat developed a strong Varsity which won three dual matches and lost two, both by one point margins.

On February 5, at the Drill Hall, the Cornell Fencing Team won its first match by decisively defeating Syracuse, 11 to 6. Chardon, Good, and Pirone stood the brunt of the Syracuse attacks. The Red and White fencers were victorious with the foils and sabres, and tied the visitors in the epee bouts.

On the following Saturday the Red and White team defeated the Hamilton Varsity, 12 to 5. The Clinton fencers displayed unexpected dexterity, and offered an unusually stiff resistance. Captain Chardon was defeated in the foils for the first time during the season.

Another victory was gained by the Varsity when they overwhelmed the Columbia duellists, 11 to 6, on February 25, thereby avenging the defeat of last year. The Cornellians decisively won the foils event with a score of 7 to 2, and tied each of the other contests. The stars of the meet were Chardon and Good for the Red and White and Cohn for the Lions, each of whom won four matches.

Cornell suffered its first defeat at Philadelphia, losing to the Penn swordsmen by a close score of 9 to 8. The redeeming feature of this meet, however, was that Cornell secured a 5 to 4 victory over the Penn foils combination. The epee event resulted in a tie, but superiority in the sabres gave the Red and Blue the victory. Following the meet with the Red and Blue team the Varsity was matched with the Pennsylvania Sword Club, and the Cornell fencers won ten matches out of eleven.

The Red and White lost their last dual meet of the season when they were defeated by the Dartmouth fencers, 7 to 6. The Cornell foils team was again victorious, but the sabre combination lost out to the Green swordsmen. Dartmouth was unable to put an epee team on the floor, and hence this event, in which Cornell was strong, had to be omitted.

Two meets yet remain, the semi-finals at West Point and the finals at New York. The Red and White fencers stand a good chance of placing in these contests, and great things are expected in particular of the foils combination, which has not yet been defeated.

EGGMANN
Captain-Elect

The 1926 Tennis Season

Coach Faulkner's first Varsity team came through a hard schedule with one of the finest records in Cornell's history of the net, losing one match, to Princeton, and winning five, from Colgate, Ohio State, Penn State, Syracuse, and Penn.

In the initial match with Colgate, April 24, on the Baker courts, Cornell scored an easy victory of 5 to 0. One singles match and all the doubles matches were called off on account of rain. The match of Garretson of Cornell and Story of Colgate was the best exhibition of tennis of the day. Although Garretson lost the first set, he recovered his form in the second, and finished in whirlwind fashion to win the final and deciding set of his match.

Cornell suffered its only defeat of the season at the hands of the Princeton netmen at Princeton, May 6. In spite of an excellent start by the Ithacans, they were unable to withstand the attack of the strong Orange and Black team, which was undefeated throughout the season. The match resulted in a score of 2 to 7 against the Cornellians.

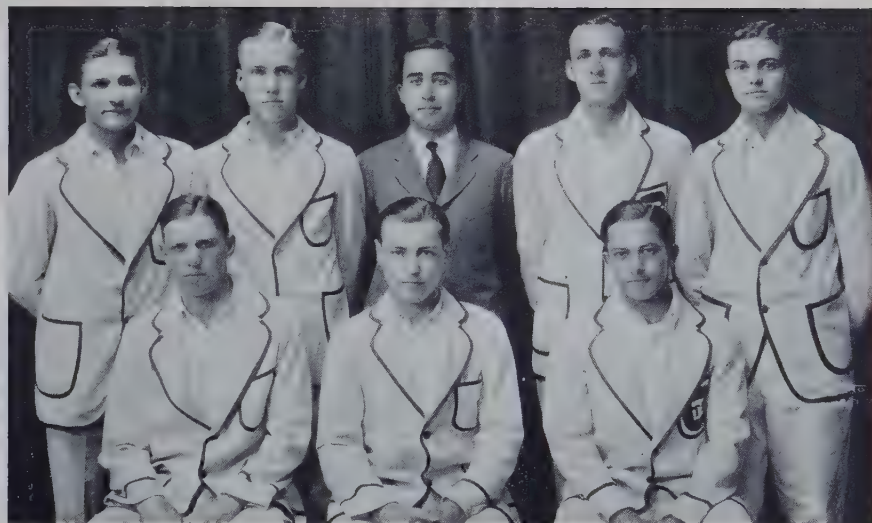

Ohio State, one of the strongest teams in the Big Ten, had an unbroken series of successes destroyed by the Red and White netmen on the Baker courts, May 12, by a score of 1 to 8. Eggmann at the outset sprang a surprise by defeating the much heralded Tracy of State in two straight sets, 6-3, 6-3. The remainder of the team followed his lead and played well to defeat a powerful opponent.

Against Penn State at State College, May 15, the Cornellians made a clean sweep for a score of 9 to 0. The six singles matches and the three doubles were won without much difficulty by the Red and White. The fifth meet of the season was against Syracuse in Ithaca, May 20. Although the Salt City players were reputed to have a strong and well balanced team, the Red and White netmen had no difficulty in downing them by a score of 7 to 2.

The Varsity won its fourth straight contest in the last matches of the season against Penn by a score of 6 to 3. Cornell won by taking all of the doubles and breaking even in the singles, with Captain Bright, Garretson, and Stein winning for Cornell.

Whitbeck, Harvard, defeats Marsh, Williams

Intercollegiate Indoor

A new and important chapter was written into the history of intercollegiate tennis on Friday and Saturday, February 11 and 12, when 34 players representing Columbia, Cornell, Hamilton, Harvard, Lehigh, Michigan, Ohio State, Pennsylvania, Syracuse, Williams, and Yale, and including all of the outstanding college stars of the East, met on the floor of the Drill Hall to compete in the First Annual Intercollegiate Indoor Lawn Tennis Tournament.

The preliminary rounds on Friday provided thrills by the defeat of several seeded players. Watson of Yale and Eggmann of Cornell were eliminated in the third round of the singles by Marsh of Williams and Millen of Pennsylvania in exciting matches. The doubles upsets occurred when Hofkins and Linglebach of Pennsylvania defeated Sullivan and Trumball of Lehigh, and Whitbeck and Lenhart of Harvard won from Kraft and Millen of Pennsylvania.

Whitbeck of Harvard easily vanquished Sullivan of Lehigh, 6-4, 6-4, in the first match of the semi-finals. Millen frequently over-drove the base line and his defensive backhand was no match for the clean-stroking of Marsh, who defeated him, 6-3, 6-2. In the doubles Eggmann and Garretson of Cornell defeated B. H. Whitbeck and Lenhart of Harvard with comparative ease. To conserve J. S. Whitbeck's energies, the Harvard team composed of Whitbeck and Gordon defaulted to Watson and McGlenn of Yale.

The climax of the tournament came on Saturday afternoon with the finals. J. S.

Troy

Tennis Tournament

Whitbeck lost the first set of the singles match to Marsh, 6-4, but the Harvard player soon found his stride and won the necessary three sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2. By winning the singles final J. S. Whitbeck gained the honor of being the first to have his name engraved on the Larned trophy. The Cornellians, Eggmann and Garretson, took the doubles from Watson and McGlinn of Yale in the hardest fought match of the Tournament. Each game was vigorously contested and it was not until the last of the five sets that Cornell won out with the resulting score of 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5.

Harvard captured the team cup with a total of 24 points, Cornell finished second with 17 points and Yale third with 12. Marsh, Williams' one-man team, amassed 10 points for his college, but Pennsylvania nosed him out of fourth place with 11 points. Lehigh took sixth place with six points, all scored by Sullivan in the singles. Michigan scored 2 points, and Colgate, Columbia, and Ohio State 1 each.

Great credit is due the Athletic Association for fostering the Tournament, to the officials of the U. S. L. T. A. and the committee for the smoothness with which the matches were run off, to the players for the fine quality and sportsmanship of the play, and to the student body for its substantial support. All helped to insure the success of an event that promises to be one of the most important steps yet taken in the development of intercollegiate tennis.

Other Sports

Among other sports in which Cornell undergraduates engaged were Rifle Shooting, Swimming, and Boxing. Of these, only the Rifle team is recognized by the Athletic Association and its members awarded insignia. The Varsity swimmers with Faculty sanction competed in out-of-town meets as a team, while the boxing representatives took part in A. A. U. contests as individuals.

Under the joint auspices of the Athletic Association and the Military Department, the Rifle Team made its debut this year among Cornell sports, engaging in a schedule of thirty indoor matches, and finishing the season with a total of twenty victories and ten defeats. With Lieutenant Hammond as coach, the team was organized on the regular ten-man basis, each shooting in four positions, prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing, one hundred being the highest possible total in each position. The correspondence matches, the only possible form of competition during the Winter Season, were followed by an outdoor shoulder-to-shoulder shoot with Syracuse in May. The results of these matches were satisfactory, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Michigan State, California, and Lehigh being among the teams to fall before the Cornell Riflemen. Jaffee was the consistent high man on the team, closely followed by Wood, Lippman, Captain McKinlay, and Bates. In addition to these five men, insignia was awarded to Bunke, Aymar, Spring, Moore, and Perry.

Although handicapped because of lacking suitable practice facilities, the Varsity swimmers met Union, Lehigh, and Colgate in out-of-town contests, while the Freshmen competed against Ithaca High School and the Syracuse Freshmen. Captain Larco, Carpenter, and Meyer did well for the Varsity, although the team was defeated in its three dual matches. Besides these intercollegiate contests, the University Championships, held in March, with silver cups awarded to the winners in each event, aided in developing material. With the veteran Varsity returning intact, and the addition of the strong freshman squad, Cornell should be represented in 1928 by a winning team in the meets which Coach Craigie, '27, and Manager Wyvell, '29, have scheduled against Union, Syracuse, Colgate, Lehigh, and Columbia.

With Coach John J. Fallon, one of the best boxing coaches in the country, as instructor, many undergraduates take the opportunity to become proficient in the manly art of self-defense. Only two competitions are officially recognized by the University, the Novice and University Championship tournaments, at which the winners in the respective classes receive medals. Since there is no recognized boxing team, outside competition is afforded only when Cornellians voluntarily enter A. A. U. tournaments, boxing as individuals, and not representing Cornell. During the past year, Baker, Coffey, Evans, Foote, Sailer, and Stagg have participated in such outside contests. In these matches, the Cornellians, although not officially representing the University, have been unusually successful.

Review of Freshman Football

Going through the season with two tie games, against Dickinson and Penn, and winning decisively from Columbia, the 1930 Football team was developed by Coach Eckley, '17, into a smooth running machine from comparatively green material. Captain Wakeman, Davies, Levy, and Jamieson played well for the yearlings.

The first game of the season on October 16 resulted in a scoreless tie. Although the Red and White clearly outplayed their opponents from Dickinson, their playing was marred by excessive fumbling. Often within scoring distance they lacked the final drive necessary to tally.

Displaying much potential strength, but again the woeful tendency to fumble, the Cornellians defeated Columbia's strong yearling team, 10 to 0, on a muddy field, October 30. The Red and White kept on the offensive throughout the contest, but it was not until the final quarter that Levy's third attempt at a field goal scored the first points. Following this Columbia returned Cornell's kick, and successive rushes by Davies resulted in a touchdown.

Playing the Pennsylvania freshmen to a 13 to 13 tie on November 6 at Franklin Field, the Cornell freshman team kept their record clear of defeat. The Cornellians featured a strong aerial attack, which netted a touchdown and goal in the first period, to be followed by another goal to give the Red and White a lead which was held until the end of the third quarter. Two Red and Blue field goals and a run of 75 yards for Pennsylvania's touchdown tied the score in the final period and prevented a Cornell victory.

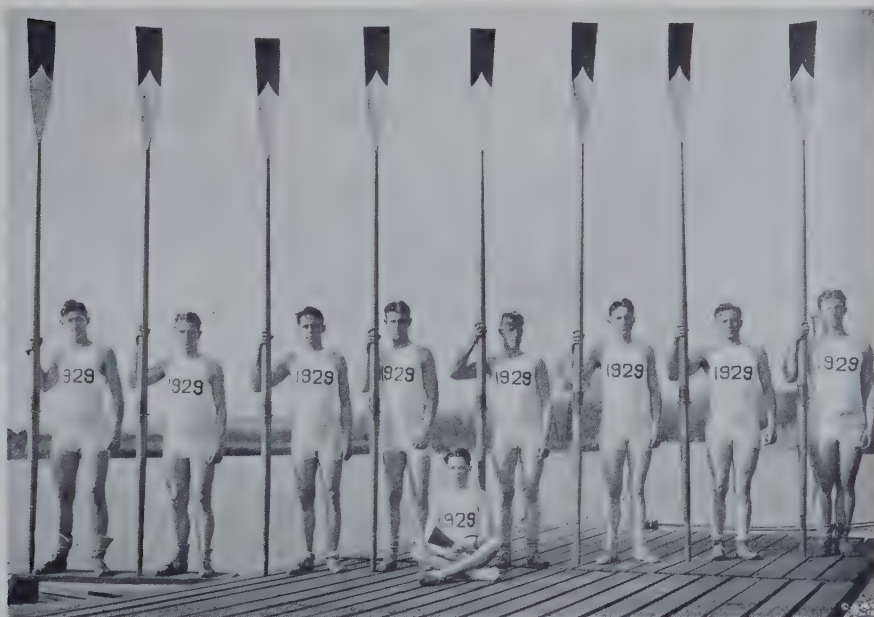

Review of Freshman Crew

The 1929 crew season was not successful in victories, the Cornell Freshman boat placing last in every regatta, but developing some promising Varsity material.

In the Spring Day race, the Cornell yearlings held over Princeton and Yale until the half mile mark. From that point they dropped behind until with a sensational sprint in the final eighth of a mile they barely missed overtaking Princeton for second place.

On the following Saturday at Cambridge the Freshmen were badly outclassed and finished a poor third to Harvard and Navy. In the race on Cayuga Lake against the California Freshmen, who later placed second at Poughkeepsie, the Red and White was easily beaten.

At Poughkeepsie the Cornellians were again unable to show any power and finished last. The strong Columbia Freshman aggregation won easily over California. Syracuse was close behind with Penn and Cornell far in the rear.

Review of Freshman Track

The 1929 Track Team had their first opportunity to display their talents at the Annual Underclass Meet in the Fall, in a contest marked by keen competition and promising ability on the part of the yearlings, despite the victory of 1928 by a 73 to 52 score.

From the material presented Coach Moakley by this meet a good relay team was developed for the indoor season. On March 6, at the Intercollegiates, the Cornell Freshman Medley team placed second. Later in the month the Mile Relay team easily defeated the strong Colgate Freshman delegation in the Drill Hall. The final meet for the team was at the outdoor Penn Relays, where the Freshmen, not faring as successfully as before, finished last.

Pennsylvania overwhelmed the Cornellians, 96½ to 38½, in the first outdoor dual meet at Franklin Field, May 8. The only first places for the Red and White were Benson in the two mile run, Beyer in the 220 yard low hurdles, and Worden in the hammer throw. Inspired by the phenomenal running of Captain Benson in the mile run, the Cornell yearlings won from the Colgate Freshmen on Schoellkopf Field, May 29, by a score of 68 to 58, in their other dual meet. Worden was a double winner, taking first in the hammer and javelin events. The other Cornellians placing first were Wells, Beyer, Brumder, and Firman.

Captain Benson was the outstanding performer of the team, winning every race he entered during the season. He won his Varsity letter for participation in the International Varsity Meet with Oxford and Cambridge ranking him with Stack, Lovejoy, and Spelman, the only other men so honored in the history of Cornell. Beyer and Wells in the hurdles, and Brumder in the half mile, displayed promising form, while in the field events the leading performers were Firman, Gifford, and Worden.

Review of Freshman Baseball

The 1929 Baseball team, under the tutelage of Coaches Eckley, '17, and Haddock, served primarily the purpose of developing future Varsity material. The nine displayed remarkable offensive ability and a good pitching staff, but lack of experienced outfielders proved too much of a handicap. Out of five games played only one victory, over Colgate, was credited to the Cornellians.

In the first local game with Cortland Normal on April 24, the yearlings, although strong at the bat, showed their lack of drill and the score stood 7 to 4 against them when the game was called at the end of 4 1-2 innings because of rain. A week later the Red and White bowed before the Columbia Freshmen, 9 to 1. A rally in the ninth inning failed to save the game which was lost by the many Cornell errors.

Pitching consistent ball, and receiving good support from his teammates, La France defeated the Colgate Freshmen, 10 to 2, for Cornell's only victory. Gichner, Rollo, and Scharping were the Cornell hitting stars.

Both out of town games proved disastrous. On May 8 the team met defeat, 4 to 2, at Philadelphia, in a close struggle with the Red and Blue. In the last game of the season, played at State College on May 15, the Freshmen lost to the Penn State Cubs in a slugfest characterized by ragged playing and by the homers of Sefton, Latham, and Hebert of Cornell. Overcoming a six run lead, Cornell tied the count in the ninth, but lost in the tenth inning by the close score of 11 to 10.

Review of Freshman Basketball

Reynolds Howland Fossum Joslyn Loetscher
Lewis Brooks Bessmer Harris

Despite the poor showing of the 1930 Basketball team in winning only one game and losing five, the season was not entirely unsuccessful as good future Varsity material was developed by Coach Wedell, '24. Although the team improved steadily, the first four games were lost in succession to Manlius, Penn, Cortland Normal, and Colgate because of insufficient teamwork. Showing a decided improvement in form and accuracy of shooting the Freshmen won the return game against Cortland, but lost the final game of the season to Rochester. Captain Lewis, Bessmer, and Brooks were the outstanding players of the team.

Review of Freshman Cross-Country

The strong 1930 Cross Country team completed a very successful season by placing second to Syracuse in the Intercollegiate Run at Van Cortlandt Park, New York City, with 63 points. Levering in fourth place was the first Cornellian to finish. The yearlings were easy winners in their only two dual meets. Taking the first seven places in the race against Ithaca High School, the Cornellians won by a large margin with Eldredge and Schillke well in the lead. Levering won third place with Walsh close behind to take fourth. The Red and White yearlings placed eleven out of the first thirteen men to win decisively from Manlius, 36 to 84. Eldredge, Schillke, and Levering ran well for the Freshmen.

WOMEN'S CLASS HISTORY

The Class of 1927

By RHEUA VAUGHN MEDDEN

SEPT. 26, 1923:—My first day at Cornell, and am tired out. I lost a yard of registration blanks and had a ghastly time getting some more.

SEPT. 27:—Finished registration today. Waited in English I line for three hours. The man at the desk insisted that I put my telephone number down after my name, and the man behind me laughed. I wonder why.

OCT. 1:—My junior grandmother took me to a tea today. Every one that I met asked me how I liked Cornell, and what college I was in, and where I was living, and said that they hoped that they would see me again. I wonder why. Guess I am one of the bewildered freshmen.

OCT. 5:—Haven't had time to study at all. We went to a Get-Wise meeting where several dignified seniors talked on activities and rules and studies. It all seems so complicated. There is so much to do.

OCT. 20:—The W.A.A. picnic out along the lake was heaps of fun. Every one was friendly and jolly, and the food was good.

OCT. 21:—Went to my first class meeting today. Barbara Wright was elected chairman of the picnic, and we made the owl our class mascot.

OCT. 22:—Our class picnic on Beebe is over. Had a very peppy snake dance through Risley and Sage, and the songs and cheers sounded great, although the sophomores didn't seem to think much of them.

NOV. 29:—The invitations for Hades are out. I wonder if they really can do anything to us. We are going to organize if they try to do anything.

DEC. 3:—Hades tonight. The sophomores were all dressed as red devils, and took us through a mock Hades where they made us do stunts. We had a good time and lots to eat afterwards.

"Hades to-night"

JAN. 21, 1924:—Exam week. Everybody is studying, and everybody seems afraid that they will bust out. To add to the general effect, they sing, "Give my Regards to Davy" every night in the dining room. It is not pleasant.

FEB. 1:—Did not bust out, thank heavens.

APRIL 1:—It is too lovely out-of-doors. I haven't studied for a week. Have been playing bridge on Sage roof every night after dinner. Spring is wonderful, but I have busted two prelims already.

MAY 7:—Had our Freshman Banquet tonight at Risley. Hardly seems possible that we have been college women for a whole year. And what a year!

SEPT. 26:—Registered without much trouble, but I wish that I had a junior grandmother to look after me. Of course I wouldn't admit it. The freshmen are certainly an unusually young looking class. And the attention they get from the juniors and seniors. Absurd!

OCT. 23:—Our picnic over. Those silly frosh took our owl, and we had to get another, but otherwise it was a good picnic.

NOV. 28:—Hades, a Greek affair under Peg Fischer's inventive direction. Very pretty, but I don't believe that we scared them much.

JAN. 30, 1925:—Wonder how I ever got through exams last year. I just told the only frosh on this corridor that they bust one from each class on each corridor. She has gone down to ask Miss Seeley if she may change her room.

APR. 30:—The sophomores don't get invited to all the upperclass parties the way the freshmen do. We would behave so much better than they do, too, by virtue of our greater experience. However we are giving them a party, and working our heads off making oriental decorations for the Sophomore Cotillion.

MAR. 20:—Elections again. It certainly is a thrill to sit down stairs at a Mass Meeting even if we do have to sit in the back where we can't hear anything. They wrote the elections on the board, though, and we cheered when Barbara Wright was elected president of Sage, Meta Ungerer, chairman of Cascadilla, and Honey Haskell, president of 1927.

MAY 30:—Athletic Field Day, and wonder of wonders, 1927 won the cup. The other classes were so surprised.

JUNE 1:—For heaven's sake, another year gone.

SEPT. 23:—Back two days early to help the freshmen register. Wonder if my junior grandmother felt so helpless. I have four charges, and I no sooner find one than I lose another. Took them to a million teas. Introduced them to everybody who promptly forgot their names and came up ten minutes later to be introduced all over again.

APR. 27, 1926:—More fun at the Junior-Frosh Wedding. Talk about expressing your personality. Everybody dressed absurdly and enjoyed it hugely—much more than the freshmen we were supposed to entertain, I'm sure.

MAR. 24:—Elections more serious this year, since they mean the real heads of student activities. Satisfactory returns, however, when Barbara Wright was elected president of W.S.G.A., Meta Ungerer, chairman of outside houses, Carmen Schneider, president of Risley, Grace Hanson, chairman of activities, Bebe Stowe, president of 1927, Zanda Hobart, president of Y.W., and Honey Haskell, president of W.A.A.

MAY 1:—Dean White has resigned. Cornell is losing a well-loved and thoroughly respected leader.

SEPT. 24:—Waited until noon to register and avoided all the jam.

OCT. 11:—Our last picnic on Beebe tonight. The best of all. We all felt a little sentimental when we sang our senior dirge.

NOV. 9:—Miss R. Louise Fitch spoke at Mass Meeting. 1927 is certainly fortunate to be able to help usher in this new regime as well as having enjoyed three years under the old.

FEB. 10, 1927:—Everybody is writing applications for positions next year, or saying with a superior air that they aren't looking for that sort of job.

MAR. 20:—Spring again, and added to the beauty of it, the realization that this is our last in Ithaca. Makes it a bit sad and a bit more beautiful. The buildings, the campus, the hills around us, all well known and loved friends, we will never meet the same way again. But they have left impressions with us that have become part of the background of our lives. New fields of endeavor, new friends, new experiences, all will be colored a richer hue by our four years at Cornell.

A SAFETY RAZOR AND STROPPER COMBINED IN ONE

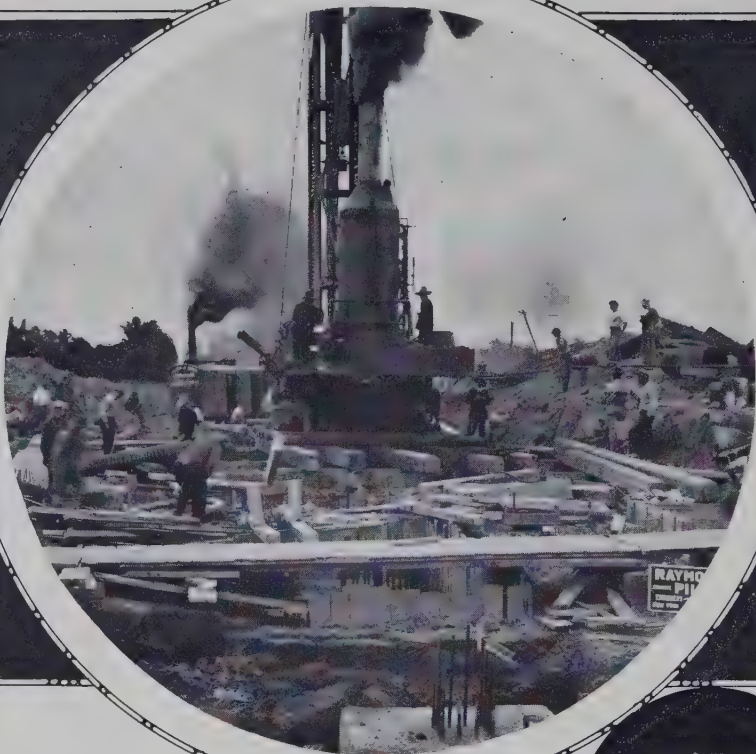

Most safety razor blades grow dull after only a few shaves—they “pull” and must be thrown away. The ordinary safety razor cannot be stropped except through stropping devices that must be bought and used separately.

Avoid this needless discomfort and expense. Use a razor that strops its own blades! With the Valet AutoStrop Razor you can easily bring back the first keen edge in ten seconds every morning. Stropping, Shaving, Cleaning—the blade always stays in the razor!

Save your face! Daily shaving with the Valet AutoStrop Razor leaves your skin soft and smooth—keeps your face young.

GLORIFYING THE MODERN MOTOR CAR WITH NEW IDEALS OF MAGNIFICENCE

THE NEW ROYAL EIGHT

THIS is the Eight that is constantly being pointed out and admired for its charming design . . .

The Eight with "the million dollar interior"—lavishly equipped and appointed with every luxury, every nicety, every comfort you could ever conceive in a car . . .

The Eight that is giving everybody who drives it a new notion of smooth motion—thrilling everybody with the power of its marvelous eight-cylinder Pikes Peak Motor—delighting everybody with its superb sensitiveness to throttle and brakes . . .

The Eight that is able to glide along at a velocity of seventy-five miles an hour, or better, with less fuss or exertion than some cars exhibit at the rate of forty!

Likewise remarkable in performance, likewise beautiful, are the new 1927 Chandler Sixes—a magnificent line of Eights and Sixes together—a choice of twenty-five different body styles—at a price range of $945 to $2295, f. o. b. factory. See—drive—compare!

In Your New Central Heating Plant at Ithaca Boiler Operation is Improved by 25 Diamond Automatic Valved Soot Blowers

Frequent use of mechanical soot blowers improve boiler operation, for soot—an excellent heat insulator—is not allowed to accumulate on the tubes.

Diamond Automatic Valved Soot Blowers promote cleaning as often as is economically justified because they are easy to operate, the cleaning process is thorough and requires only a short time, and their cost of operation is low.

These soot blowers increase both the efficiency and capacity of boilers, save fuel, and increase the length of boiler service by reducing corrosion and pitting due to soot.

In September, 1923, five Diamond Automatic Valved Soot Blowers were installed in each of four Stirling boilers in your New Central Heating Plant at Ithaca; a fifth boiler was similarly equipped early in 1926.

At the end of 1926, after twenty blowers had been in service more than three years, and five almost one year, very little had been spent for repair parts. And all the blowers had been operating satisfactorily since their installation.

YOUTH

PARTICULARLY youth as it is represented by men and women of the Cornell stamp, is endowed with certain glorious advantages of which it should eagerly make the most.

The experience of others has blazoned the smoothest trail to security and those who follow it find it a royal road. It is the path paved with adequate life insurance protection.

It would be difficult to compute in dollars and cents the debt the college man or woman owes the parents who made possible their education.

There will come a day, too, when the Cornellian of today will have a family of his own depending upon him.

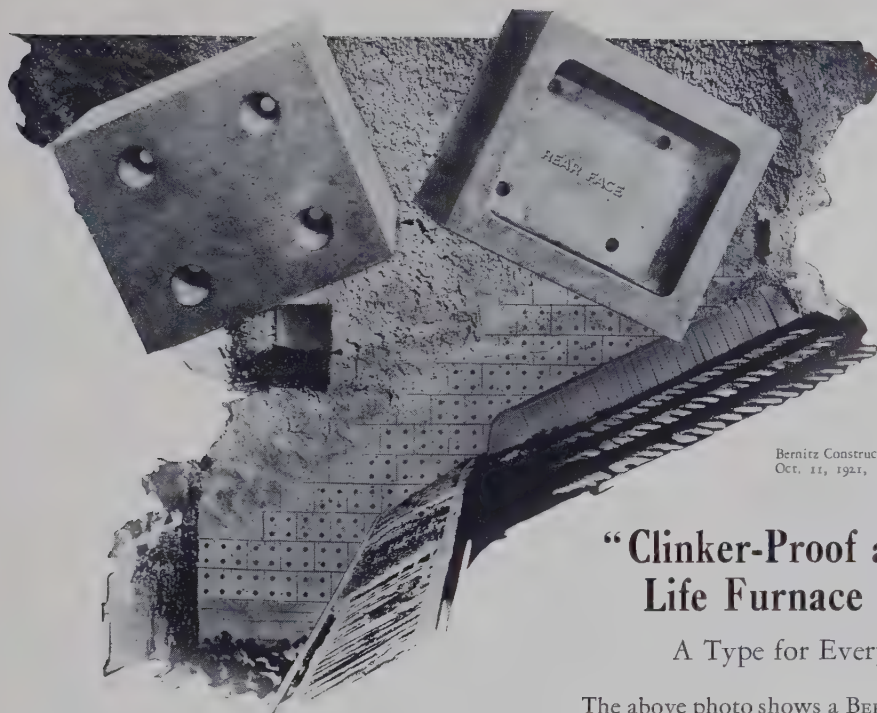

These obligations are met four-square and certainly when life insurance protection is wisely selected early in life, for it is then that cost is minimum.

Bernitz Construction Patented

“Clinker-Proof and Long Life Furnace Walls”

A Type for Every Need

BERNITZ CARBOFRAX SUPER BLOCKS are applied extensively as linings to boiler furnaces equipped with multi and single retort stokers, oil burners, and pulverized fuel. In fact they are used in any types of furnaces subjected to severe conditions—clinker adhesion, slag erosion, flame abrasion, etc.—encountered in modern boiler furnaces run at high ratings. A type of furnace lining for every need—over 3000 installations of the Bernitz Construction among which are the leading central station, railroad, and industrial power plants.

BERNITZ SUPER LININGS for Water Gas Generators are also increasing capacities, effecting substantial operating economies and likewise are positively clinker-proof.

The above photo shows a BERNITZ CARBOFRAX SUPER LINING after 15 months use (300% rating most the time) in the furnace of a 1950 H. P. boiler. Upwards of three years even under the severest service, can easily be obtained with these linings and in a large proportion of installations practically a permanent lining is obtained.

CARBOFRAX, the pure Carborundum refractory, is the material that BERNITZ SUPER BLOCKS are made of because of its great strength, refractoriness, heat-conductivity and low abrasion and spalling loss. These qualities are greatly enhanced by the Bernitz Ventilating system.

Exponents of Industrial Forestry

Lumber manufacturers are finding ways to apply forestry principles to the handling of their woodlands.

Such applications involve consistent and well planned programs of

Fire protection for all lands

Insect control operations

Selective logging in pine

Improvement thinnings

Forestry nursery development

Replanting in cutover areas

By-products research

All these activities are going forward on a commercial scale in the Southern and Western operations of

The Long-Bell Lumber Company

R. A. LONG BLDG., KANSAS CITY, MO.

CONTROL of combustion and boiler water conditioning are the two most pertinent factors in efficient boiler plant operation today.

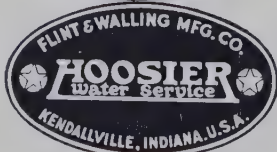

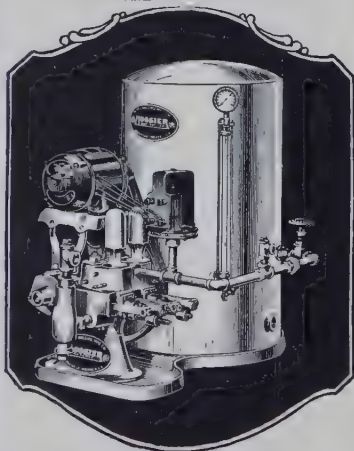

The Hall System of Water Conditioning, developed by Dr. R. E. Hall, while Physical-Chemist of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, eliminates scale, inhibits corrosion, produces dry steam and has been successfully installed and operated in many boiler plants. It is the first fundamentally scientific method of boiler water treatment.

Hagan Combustion Control was first advocated nine years ago. It is significant that today Hagan Control is regulating over 8,000,000 boiler horsepower, with an annual saving in fuel alone of Millions of Dollars

Water in Abundance

FOR SMALL TOWN, SUBURBAN AND ISOLATED HOMES

HOOSIER WATER SERVICE provides the ideal water supply for any home owner who does not have available the advantages of city water service. It is also desirable for city home owners who have a cistern, and wish to provide soft water, under pressure, for use in their homes.

The electrically driven Hoosier installations are automatically controlled, and require scarcely any attention, affording water service equal to that had in most cities. Hoosier equipment is protected against rust and corrosion by our GALVAZINK, or all-galvanized surface, inside and out.

Hoosier Water Service equipment may be had for operation by any power and for deep or shallow wells.

Anyone interested in a better water supply is invited to avail themselves, without obligations, of the services of our Engineering Department, to ascertain the most suitable Hoosier installation for their needs.

STOP Shoveling Coal Up the Chimney

With FLAME BRAND
High Temperature Cements

^{TradeMark}
"Mono" Boiler Baffling

"Hugs the Tubes"

Makes Boilers
Steam Better

Protect Furnace
Linings

Leaky baffles increase coal consumption out of all proportion to the water evaporated. An unusually large percentage of the heat units liberated escape up the stack without having done any work. Combustion efficiently depends on the proper angle and installation of baffles.

No better investment can be made for saving fuel, labor and repairs, as well as increasing steaming capacity, than to install "Mono" Baffles. They "HUG THE TUBES" closely, giving time for absorption of heat. When the gasses finally reach the stack they have left most of their heat units in the boiler.

Being monolithic and made of the highest grade refractory materials they may be installed at any angle desired, "HUGGING THE TUBES" tightly without binding. They set without heat. The baffle then becomes a solid structure with long life without spalling, burning away or cracking. Tubes may be removed at will or turbed as necessary without affecting the baffles.

Not only will brick work last much longer but there will be a positive saving of fuel, heat, labor and repairs.

Flame Brand High Temperature Cements prevent the breakdown of brick work under the high temperatures of either stoker, powdered fuel firing or oil burning, and save the frequent shut-downs and expenses required for repairs and replacements. There is one for every need, any of which are applied by ordinary workmen. Here's the high temperature line:

Red Flame Veneer Cement
White Flame Insulating Cement
Blue Flame Fire Brick Cement
Plastikko Repairing Cement
Ramit for Rammed-in Linings

PHI DELTA THETA FRATERNITY HOUSE, CORNELL UNIVERSITY

MOHAWK TAPERED ASBESTOS SHINGLES

Were selected to roof the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity House at Cornell because they combine rare beauty with utmost practicality

MOHAWK SHINGLES are tapered—thicker at the butt than at the tip—like wood shingles. They give that beautiful characteristic effect of a heavy shadow line, without the known disadvantages and faults of wood shingles. The rough surface and mottled texture of the Mohawk hand-hewn rustic butt, give that delightful weather-aged and weather-worn appearance, even when new.

Permanent colors—reds, browns, purples, buffs, grays, and blacks—rich yet subdued tones, blend on the roof to conform with natural environment, reflecting nature's own effects in sky, woodland and field.

Composed of Portland cement and asbestos fibre, they are fire and element proof, durable and permanent—EVERLASTING—guaranteed. First cost is last cost, and that surprisingly low. Mohawk Asbestos Shingles are laid American method, adding the final touch of refinement to the home. Years of service under all climatic conditions have proved the superiority of Mohawk Tapered Asbestos Shingles.

Don't decide on your roof—don't re-roof—until you get samples of Mohawk Asbestos Shingles, pictures of Mohawk Roofs and descriptive literature. Sent free—write for them today.

Dependable Power for Every Purpose

The Red Seal Era!

Certain definite influences have marked the progress of every step in the improvement of this country's transportation systems.

The first steam engine of Watts, the experimental auto of Elwood Haynes and the building of the first Continental motor at the birth of the automotive industry, were all due to those compelling influences which speed up effort.

With each successive step in the perfection of the present day master-pieces of transportation, Continental has kept abreast of the industry. During this entire period of development Continental leadership has remained unquestioned, its success being reflected in every field where gasoline power is employed.

Because of the many signal achievements in internal combustion engine design and performance this is truly the Red Seal Era—an era which has marked the Red Seal as the symbol of supremacy in motor manufacture and a fitting tribute to the efforts of specialists who have concentrated upon one line of endeavor for twenty-five years.

Today Red Seal Motors are used in every country of the civilized world, blazing new paths to greater motor efficiency and building up greater prestige through economical operation.

Standing out in bold relief among the Red Seal accomplishments is a solid background of unlimited resources and sound manufacturing policies—the buyer's assurance of a successful past and a permanent future.

Dependable power for every purpose is a Red Seal actuality and a proven fact, not only for today but in the years to come—the best possible guarantee of perfect power plant performance.

Five Hundred Miles Per Hour

AS AN example of engineering, few mechanisms are as interesting as a Smith & Wesson Revolver.

Weighing less than 40 ounces, these arms must stand an explosive pressure of over 14,000 lbs. per square inch, with but slight recoil, develop a bullet speed of over 500 miles per hour and a rotation of 32,000 R. P. M.

To so accurately control bullets at this tremendous speed, that they will all strike in a circle less than 1 inch in diameter, at 20 yards, requires correct design and accurate workmanship.

The superior accuracy and durability of the Smith & Wesson is due to a correct solution of the engineering problems and the highest standard of quality.

A study of this revolver will interest any engineer.

An Organization of Engineers

THE DORR COMPANY is an organization of Engineers specializing in that branch of technology which pertains to the treatment of mixtures of finely-divided solids and liquids.

The equipment and methods introduced by the Company for carrying on continuously such operations as agitation, classification, thickening and dewatering, concentrating, washing, screening, clarification, etc., have been adopted in the production of more than 80 materials, and are in use in all quarters of the globe.

From the time that the first Dorr machine was installed for treating gold and silver ore—an installation that put years of profitable life into a losing property—the merit of our machines and methods has been reflected by a continued expansion into other fields.

Today, Dorr Equipment is standard not only in metallurgical practice, but in various branches of Industrial, Chemical, and Sanitary Engineering.

And, in our testing plant at Westport, Conn., the groundwork for continued expansion into new fields is worked out on a basis of scientific research backed up by actual operating tests.

DETRICK ARCHES are in operation over the stokers of the University's Central Heating Plant. They were a part of the original boiler installation and like those in thousands of other plants are giving satisfactory service.

The construction of the Detrick Arch, while exceedingly simple, is the result of many years of arch experience. More than 10,000 installations represent the laboratory in which the Detrick Arch of today has been perfected.

If you are interested in power plants write for the elaborate Detrick Catalog. It is a treatise on furnace design and is a valuable addition to any engineer's library.

The Big Business of Protecting Business

Have you ever thought what a marvelous, complex development modern business is? Starting with basic materials, and following them until the final product is on the consumer's back, or under his feet, or in his stomach, you will find hundreds, sometimes thousands, of individuals personally interested in some phase of production entirely foreign to the other phases, but interlocking with the general scheme, and contributing to the completion of the product.

The Todd Company's business is protecting business from the hazards of check fraud. We are not occupied with the "basic products," such as food, clothing, or building. What we make never becomes a major factor in the life or business of the "final consumer," such as his house, or his automobile, or his furniture.

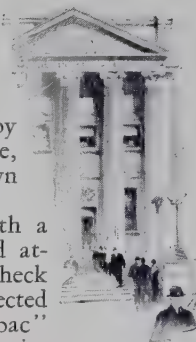

But the careful bank depositor of today would not think of issuing checks without protecting them. The American Institute of Accountants estimates that criminals take $100,000,000 every year by check fraud. The Todd Company's great nation-wide organization is devoted to reducing this loss as far as possible, and supplying bank depositors with whatever they need to adequately protect their checks.

In 1899, "check raisers" were finding easy victims right and left, when The Todd Company began manufacturing the first "Protectographs." These machines shredded "NOT OVER" such-and-such "DOLLARS" into the checks, making them entirely unsatisfactory for the check raiser's purpose. Thousands of these machines were bought by the business world, eager for some protection against check criminals.

The Protectograph has been perfected until it is now manufactured in different models and sizes to fit individual needs, from the Personal Protectograph, which sells for only $20, to the large electrically operated Super-Speed model. Still the old "shredding" principle is adhered to, because it has remained the safest way to write amounts.

But the wily check crook did not stop at alteration of amounts. He began cashing even Protectographed checks for their face value by erasing the name of the payee, and substituting one of his own aliases, or the word "Cash." Todd met the situation with a special check which exposed attempts at alteration. This check has been developed and perfected until now the "Todd Greenbac" check is as fine a protective instrument as the human brain has been able to devise. Todd Greenbac checks in combination with the protectograph, offer the best mechanical check protection available. This protection is within the means of everyone who has a checking account.

But there is one form of check fraud that no mechanical protection can prevent. That is "forgery of signature." There is only one way to prevent loss from this criminal act—insurance. Therefore, The Todd Company, by special arrangement with the Metropolitan Casualty Company of New York, offers qualified users of Todd products, Standard Forgery Insurance at special discounts, as high as 60 per cent.

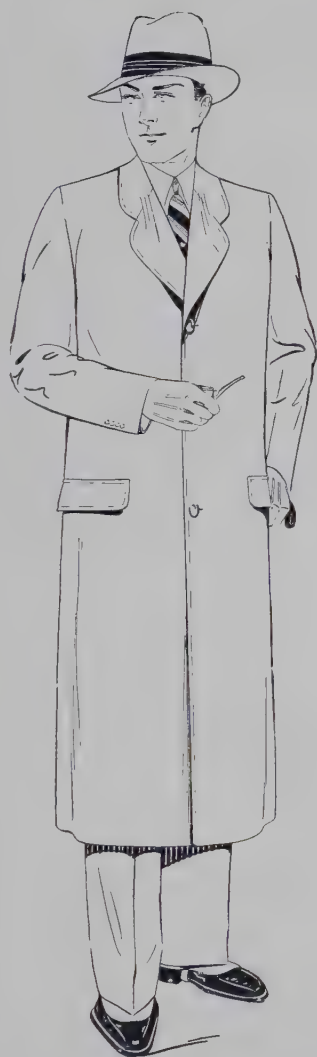

The Protectograph, Greenbac Checks, and a Standard Forgery Bond compose the Todd system of Check Protection, which forestalls completely all forms of check fraud.

The Todd Company also manufactures Super-Safety Bank Checks, which are supplied free of charge by many banks to their customers; Todd Lithographed Business Stationery, fine quality letterheads and envelopes on Strathmore papers; and the Todd Adding Machine, a handy handsome desk machine, low in price, for use where a large, expensive adding machine is not needed. A nation-wide organization of 800 salesmen is ready to serve you at any time.

SINCE time immemorial, protection and preservation of the family food supply has ever been a problem of mankind. In prehistoric times when Mr. Samuel Stonehatchet and his cohorts roamed the plains and forests, while dinoceras, sabretoothed tigers and other delicacies of the times were available and plentiful, there were certain elements of effort and some danger involved in keeping the Stonehatchet larder supplied with meat. If, as a result of the chase, the old man or one of the boys were fortunate enough to bag a fine young elephant or other favored mammal there followed much joyousness and feasting, but the food remaining was carefully put away and preserved by Mrs. Stonehatchet with all the means at her command. Steaks and loins were carefully wrapped in leaves to protect them from flies, bugs and other vermin, and they were either hung in a cool shady place or stored away in some sheltered cave to be used another time.

This instinct to preserve and protect food has been inherited and is readily traceable throughout the ages, until with the advancement of civilization it has long been recognized as an economic necessity.

With the advancement in education, science and industry witnessed

A Problem of Mankind Answered

during the last half century, it was but natural that purveyors and manufacturers of foods and food products build up mammoth and nation-wide manufacturing and distributing organizations. However, due to limited preservation facilities, their earlier efforts were directed almost exclusively to non-perishable foods as flour, sugar, dried meats, canned fruits, vegetables, etc.

The development of waxed or paraffine paper, glassine paper, and, in more recent years, waxed glassine for wrapping purposes has opened up new fields for food manufacturers, and made possible the manufacture and wide distribution of perishable and semi-perishable foods to an extent which would not have been dreamed of twenty years ago.

Waxed glassine has proven itself an ideal wrapper for practically all food products. Glassine in itself is grease-proof and beautifully transparent, but when treated with a coating of tasteless and odorless paraffine wax it becomes moisture and germ-proof as well.

BANKERS LIFE COMPANY DES MOINES, IOWA

A professional man once said:

“Why doesn’t some strong old line Life Insurance Company get out a policy for a professional man, suited to his individual needs—one that will protect his family in event of an untimely death—that will furnish a retirement income to him in the autumn of life—that protects him in his occupation—one that pays an income if through disability the insured cannot pursue his occupation?”

Five years ago the Bankers Life Company started issuing just such a contract and thousands of professional men have taken and still continue to take advantage of this opportunity.

Our mission is to serve industry with this equipment

The LiftAbout and LiftAbout Jr.

These are floor operated electric hoists in capacities of $\frac{1}{2}$ and 1 ton, and 500 pounds, respectively. They have made a reality the description "an electric hoist for everybody." In thousands of widely varying lines of business they are profitably used, and pay for themselves quickly in the time and labor saved in lifting and moving materials. Send for the "Book of Illustrated Economics," an illustrated description of fifty actual installations.

Floor Operated Hoists to 10 tons

The Shepard line of Floor Operated Hoists is so complete that a type can be supplied to meet every condition and capacity. In a descriptive catalog and price list, recently published, these hoists are completely described and illustrated. It is the most comprehensive book of its kind and provides the prospective user of electric hoists with all the necessary data, dimensions, and prices of Shepard Hoists. Write for a copy.

Cage Operated Hoists to 10 tons

One man, the operator, can handle tonnage loads with ease and precision. This type of hoist, operating on monorail track, a Shepard Transfer Crane, suitable spur tracks, and switches, comprises the Shepard "Aerial Railway of Industry."

This system affords quick inter-department load-handling—a "through without change" method. We shall be pleased to send data and illustrations of this Aerial Railway. Write for a copy.

Electric Traveling Cranes to 30 tons

The company that buys a Shepard Crane not merely purchases a crane, but invests in a very definite crane service. The assured performance of this equipment is a profitable aid to production in many plants. Our crane bulletin describes and illustrates the Balanced Drive, enclosed unit construction, oil bath lubrication, permanent alignment and other advantageous features. Send for a copy.

Single I-Beam Cranes to 5 tons

These light capacity cranes are ideal for serving side bays, balconies and places where limited headroom precludes the use of a large electric traveling crane. They are equipped with Shepard Hoists with plain, geared or motor driven trolleys. The bulletin which describes these handy cranes, explains how every square foot of a floor or bay is made accessible to the hoist book. Write for a copy.

Electric Cupola Charging Hoists

Better metal through proper distribution of charges. This hoist specially designed for charging cupolas may be equipped with a bottom dump bucket or magnet to suit individual requirements. Operating on suitably laid out track and equipped with an electric bucket, it also will handle sand and fuel; with a magnet it handles scrap and pig iron; and without any attachment it does miscellaneous lifting in and about the foundry. Write for foundry bulletin.

Winches, Speed Reducers, etc.

Industrial Winches, Crane and Derrick Hoists, Elevator Hoists, Speed Reducers, and Back Geared Motors are furnished in a wide variety of types to meet every requirement. The principles of design are similar to those which have made Shepard Hoists so successful. A new descriptive catalog and price list is now ready for distribution. We shall be pleased to send a copy to you, and also included any specific data you desire.

FOR EVERY SERVICE A DETROIT STOKER

Detroit Stokers have demonstrated in actual practice that as compared to hand firing, they effect the following economies :

Fuel Saving: Saves eight to twelve per cent. of coal—a result due to more nearly complete combustion. Labor Saving: Boiler room crews cut in half. Cheaper Coal: Savings of 75 cents to $1.25 per ton are often effected. Increase Boiler Capacity: Can be operated at much higher ratings than hand-fired boilers. Smokeless Operation. Eliminates human factor. Assures uniform operating conditions.

Detroit Stokers can be adapted to any type or size of boiler and setting; their maintenance cost is low because they are built heavy for hard service and durability with no moving parts near the fire; they burn any grade of coal efficiently and with little smoke.

Assure Economical Operation of Refrigerating Plants

COMPLETE installations by United have proved their superiority over any other methods of insulation, to the entire satisfaction of the owners of a great many plants throughout the land.

To secure the best insulation results, three basic principles must be considered, viz.: 1—Surfaces against which insulation is to be erected must be waterproofed—(Par-Locking); 2—Corkboard must be erected in accordance with time-tested methods—(United's Service); 3—Exposed surface of the corkboard must be properly protected—(Crescent Sealtite Mastic Finish).

United Cork Companies is publishing a new general catalog in which the theory of, as well as the modern practices in insulation work are thoroughly described. It is profusely illustrated and contains sample specifications for many types of construction. Over the Hill from Ithaca FACING a thirty-mile sweep of Seneca Lake, in its own park of two hundred acres, The Glen Springs is only a few minutes' walk from the scenic Watkins Glen from which it takes its name.

To the pleasure seeker, it offers a wide variety of absorbing activities—riding—tennis—boating—fishing—and golf on one of the best nine-hole courses in the state.

To the health seeker, it offers rest planned by specialists—radio-active springs for kidney and digestive troubles—the only natural Nauheim calcium chloride brine bath in America for the treatment of heart and circulatory disorders.

Its own dairy and poultry farms supply delicious foods, fresh daily, for its table.

The Glen Springs is open all year. Illustrated booklets, rates, road maps, etc., sent on request.

CORNELL AND
have much in common.

EITHER institution traces its conception to a similar ideal ~ a protest against the fetters of bigotry, habit and inferiority. Each, in its development has been guided by an indomitable spirit, loyally and untiringly supported by a group of faithful devotees.

EITHER organization ever welcomes to its fold qualified and tested raw material. Each proceeds painstakingly and thoroughly to develop this raw material into a finished product of beauty, value and use. Each is engaged in a constant search for truth and perfection. The nearer either institution comes to its perennial goal, the greater the joy and blessing to mankind in general.

EITHER institution strives to create ~ not for a day nor a month ~ but for a time immeasurable. When the children of those Cornellians who this year are graduating are ready to follow in their elder's footsteps and to enter Cornell ~ the finished product which is today leaving the institution of Rolls-Royce will still be faithfully and satisfactorily serving humanity.

WOODSTOCK typewriters

The Two Best Reasons

Some men look at it this way: any machine that does more work saves money. And that is sufficient reason for installing the Woodstock Electrite—a modern typewriter powered by electricity. But other men, aware of the value of finer representation in their letters, buy the Woodstock Electrite because it does better work, and more of it! Send for Woodstock booklet.
